KILLER PLANT CAME FROM OUTER SPACE!

Deadly flower that ate a farmer and four cows is not from this planet, says expert!

The gigantic purple flower that ate a farmer and four cows in central Turkey last month may have come from outer space!

That's the conclusion of Norwegian botanist Heiner Sorensen, who says the spread of flesh-eating extraterrestrial plants could pose the greatest threat to mankind since the development of nuclear weapons.

"The plant that killed the farmer and livestock did not originate on this planet," said the expert. "For one thing it was aggressive and deadly.

"For another, it appeared to be intelligent — and possibly even be mobile."

The Oslo-based scientist began his investigation of the plant after news services reported the horrifying mutilation-murder of 79-year-old Gazin Bingol in late December.

At the time witnesses told police that the strange plant appeared in a meadow overnight and literally reached out and grabbed Bingol and his livestock as they walked by.

"Villagers destroyed the plant in a bonfire before I got to see it," said Dr. Sorensen. "But they agreed that it was at least 20 feet tall and 20 feet wide.

"It had great, green tentacles like a jellyfish and enormous purple flowers."

All that remained of Bingol and the cattle were a few scraps of hair and bone. Analysis showed that the flesh had been immersed in a chemical similar to stomach acid.

"The plant apparently was the only one of its kind in Turkey," said Dr. Sorensen. "But that doesn't mean others won't crop up elsewhere.

"It all depends on how the plant got to Earth in the first place. Was it planted by extraterrestrials? Did it grow from a space-borne spore?

"Those are questions we must answer before a potentially devastating situation gets totally out of hand."

Wacky classified ad was a joke — but . . .

Woman swamped by calls for $2,000 alley cats!

After Phyllis Poppen's cat had kittens her husband told her to put an ad in the paper and get rid of them.

But Phyllis didn't want to lose her precious bundles of fur, so she came up with a classified ad she was sure would discourage would-be kitten owners.

"UGLY KITTENS for sale, $2,000 ea. Not housebroken, eat a lot. Call bet. 8-9 p.m."

Almost immediately, the phone rang off the hook. Callers were mainly curious, but some actually wanted to buy the four felines. One eager customer offered the Stafford, Va., woman $1,500 for one of the kittens.

"It was a joke," she told The NEWS. "I did it so that every time my husband asked me, 'Did you put that ad in the paper?' I could say, 'Yes.' But it backfired."

Some people thought the kittens must be rare specimens that the Poppens didn't appreciate — like rare hairless cats.

"For instance, the man who wanted to pay $1,500 for them," Phyllis said. "Even after I explained why the ad was that way, he offered me the money. He must have been on wacky weed.

"He wanted to know if he could register them. I said, 'Well, they're alley cats. I don't know what you'd register alley cats under.'"

The cat lover said she was reluctant to sell her adorable kittens because she's so fond of felines. But she has 13 outside cats now and four inside cats. Her husband Dan, gave two of them away.

Now she's determined to keep the other two — and have all her cats neutered.

"Before these kittens were born I wanted to fix the mother cat, but my husband said, 'I'm not paying $60 to have a cat spayed.'

"Well, now we've had her fixed and he didn't complain one bit."

Long time no see!

Twins meet up after 44 years apart

By JACK ALEXANDER

Identical twins Gunther and Gerhard Klyne each thought the other had been killed in World War 2 — until they were reunited 44 years later.

Brothers hadn't seen each other since WW2 — when they were young soldiers in Hitler's army

"We just hugged each other and cried our eyes out," said Gunther. "We weren't able to speak for several minutes because of the emotion."

Said Gerhard: "To find him alive after all these years is a miracle. It was the happiest day of my life."

The gray-haired, 62-year-old twins hadn't seen each other since they were young soldiers in Hitler's army.

"I last saw Gerhard as he waved goodbye to me from a Berlin railway station as I was setting off for army training," said Gunther of Bury, England.

Gunther later was captured in Holland and ended the war in a POW camp near Sheffield. He was told that his beloved twin brother had been killed fighting the Russians in Yugoslavia.

After the war, Gunther became a miner and settled down in Bury. He married a local girl, Betty, and they had a son, Barry, 39.

It was because of his wife and son that Gunther was able to see his twin brother again. They wrote to the International Red Cross with Gerhard's last known whereabouts.

After an exhaustive search through war records, the Red Cross finally traced Gerhard, a retired locksmith, to his home in Kassel, West Germany. The twins hugged each other at a tearful reunion a few weeks later at a Manchester airport.

"As identical twins, we were very close," said Gunther.

"Although I believed he was dead, a day didn't go by when I didn't think about him."

CHAMPION fibber Ed Boyajian.

WORLD'S GREATEST LIAR TELLS IT LIKE IT IS(N'T)

For years Ed Boyajian has worried about being a nobody, but not any more — now that he's going down in history as a World Champion Liar.

The 71-year-old retiree entered a contest held by the Liar's Club of Burlington, Wis., and walked away with the grand prize. He's got a diploma on the wall at his Cape Coral, Fla., home attesting to his great skill as a fibber.

"I've done nothing all my life," the champion liar lied. "Now when I die they can put on my tombstone: 'World's Greatest Liar.'

"I'm not ashamed of being known as a fibber — I wouldn't lie to you about that."

It, Boyajian has been Somebody all his life, raising two kids and holding down a top job with the main book store at Harvard University. Now he's Somebody to two new grandchildren, too.

But Boyajian says he wasn't satisfied that he'd accomplished much until he won a contest with his whopper of a lie.

Boyajian wrote the Liar's Club that he once received a record as a gift and he liked the music on one side so well that he kept playing that side hour after hour. Theoretically, he lied, the music from both sides played at the same time.

"I thought that lie up a few years back," Boyajian told The NEWS. "I thought up the lie first, then joined the Liar's Club to use it.

"It's hard to think up a good lie, it's difficult. But I have a couple more I'm gonna send in next year. I'm going to compete again."

Boyajian claims that lying is especially hard for him because he was raised to be an honest man. With concentration and determination, however, he overcame his background and soared to the heights of yarn-spinning.

Supermarket spirits refuse to check out!

Ghost-busting priest is called in

By JACK ALEXANDER

A ghost-busting priest is trying to rid a supermarket of silly spooks who make dead chickens dance, slam hamburgers against the wall and pinch customers in the checkout lines.

Dead chickens dance and burgers fly in haunted store built over old graveyard

The demons have driven terrified customers from the store toilets and scared the wits out of janitors who clean at night.

"We've called in a vicar to force the phantoms of our new supermarket to check out," said manager Sidney Filch in Carlton, England. "The ghostly goings-on began immediately after we opened a month ago.

"We were unaware the store was built over a 300-year-old graveyard."

A cook in the store's snack bar was frying hamburgers in a pan when they suddenly began jumping up and down in the grease.

"Then the hamburger patties literally leaped out of the pan, flew across the room and splattered against the wall," said the cook.

"I swear to the Almighty they did."

An elderly woman ran screaming from the store when a packaged chicken suddenly started dancing along the poultry counter.

"And she hasn't been back," said Filch.

There have been several embarrassing moments in the checkout lines because of the pesky poltergeists.

"A woman is pinched and turns to the man behind her," said Filch.

"He proclaims his innocence but it does no good. We've had some really bad episodes."

Desperate store owners called in the Rev. William Harrison, who brought parishioner Betty Waldron along to battle the smart-alec spirits.

"Store employees were so frightened that I immediately held a blessing ceremony," said Rev. Harrison. "I asked God to dispel any evil spirits in the store. But a week later, there were reports of more strange incidents."

A clerk heard a woman sobbing in a locked storeroom, but when the door was opened the room was empty. Canned goods have been stacked upside down and toilets in the women's rest room have flushed when no one was in there.

Custodian Pat Barkland, an eyewitness to the flying hamburgers, isn't convinced the spooks are gone.

"The whole place feels cold and clammy even when the heat is on," he said. "I definitely feel a strange presence in the rest room and snack bar areas of the store."

Rev. Harrison plans another exorcism. "The spirits of the dead in the graveyard seem to be showing their displeasure because they can't rest in peace," he said.

Timely tips can help you tame your tummy troubles

Got tummy trouble? Check below to find out how you can cope with the most common digestive problems. If these suggestions don't work for you within three days or so, check with your doctor.

● Stomach growling: Grab a light snack to put an end to the tummy rumbles. A piece of fruit or lightly buttered toast should eliminate common digestive noises.

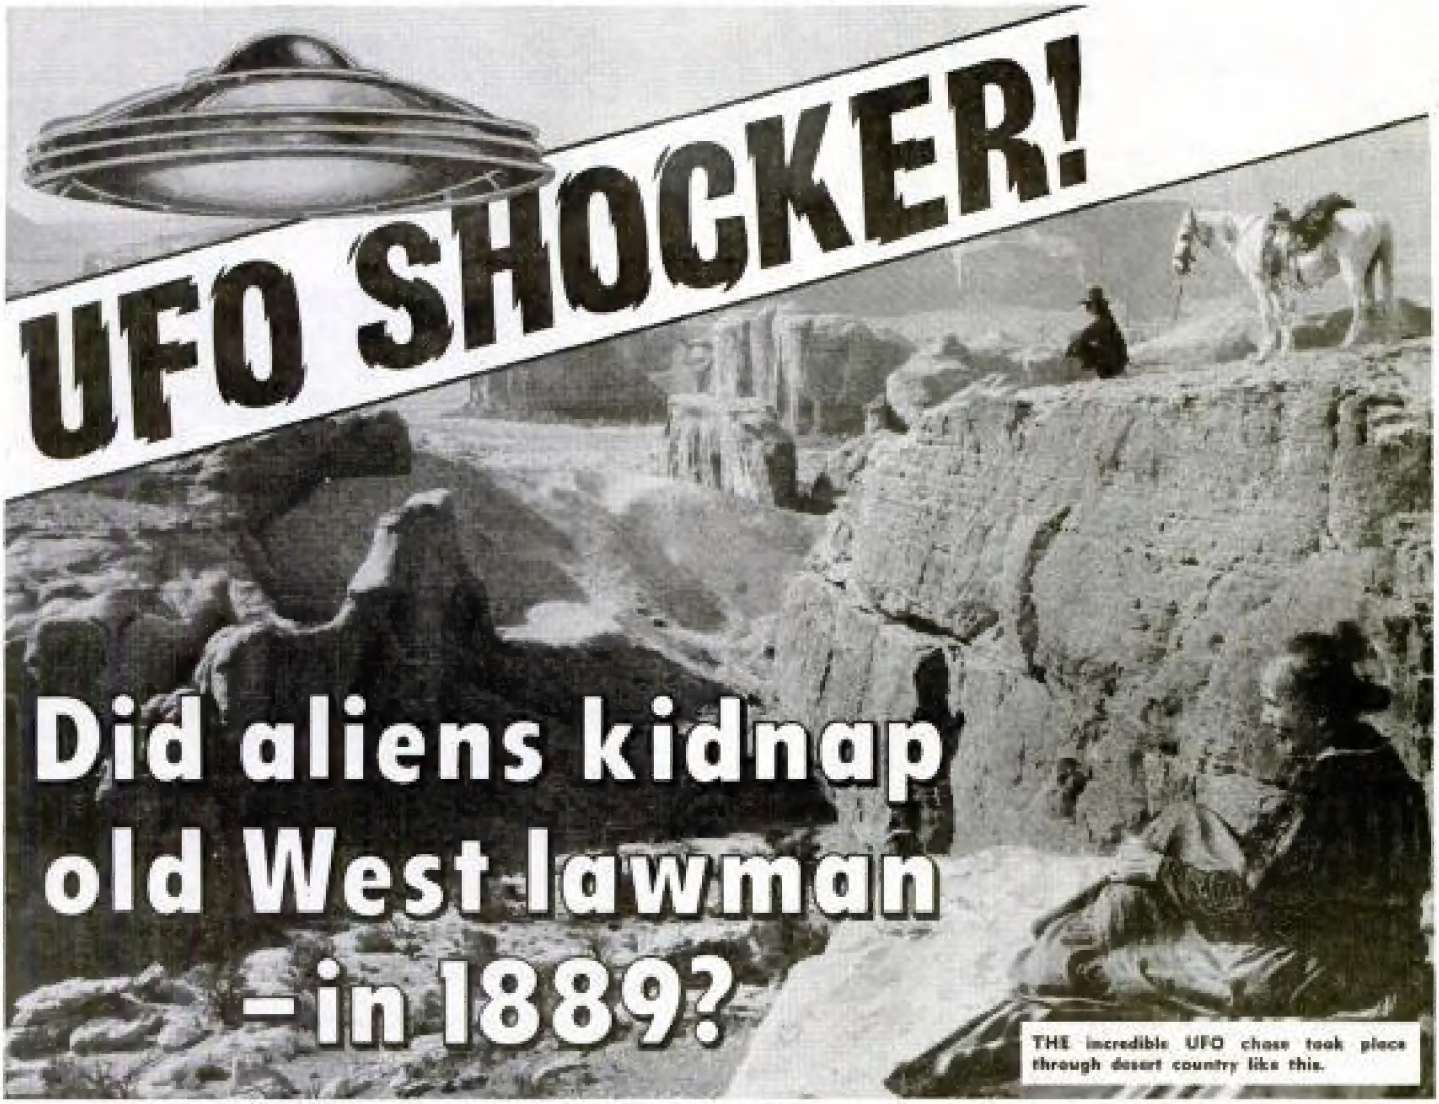
● Indigestion or abdominal discomfort: Banish that bloated feeling by chewing more slowly when you eat, drinking water and eliminating spicy or rich foods. Cutting down on stress might help, too.

● Diarrhea: Bulk-producing foods like rice and crackers can help combat this problem. Avoid too much milk, coffee, spicy food or apple and prune juice as these can sometimes lead to loose stools.

● Gas: If you've got the burps from eating too fast or dining on cabbage or beans, a few trips to the bathroom should help relieve you. Try eating in a more relaxed manner and avoid carbonated beverages, which produce gas.

● Heartburn: That searing sensation in your stomach or chest will go away if you drink plenty of water, or take an antacid under your doctor's advice. You can also avoid the rich or spicy foods that give you trouble in the first place. Another hint: don't lie down right after eating — wait a few hours until your digestive tract has a chance to process food.

● Constipation: Be sure to add more fiber to your diet to avoid this bound-up feeling. Exercise and drinking six to eight glasses of water a day will help, too. Reduce your consumption of low-fiber foods like white bread and meat and drink prune juice or another fruit juice to loosen you up.



Did aliens kidnap old West lawman – in 1889?

THE incredible UFO chase took place through desert country like this.

By HENRY WEBER

Arizona lawmen chased a crippled UFO clear into Mexico before its alien crew finished making repairs, kidnapped a member of the posse and vanished without a trace — in 1889!

Priest reveals incredible account of eyewitness!

That's the mind-boggling claim of posse member Jorge Hernandez, who told his story to a Catholic priest before he died at the age of 105 in 1971.

"I'm not sure what to make of the story but I do believe Mr. Hernandez was telling the truth," the priest, Father Joel de Mola, told a television interviewer in Nacozari de Garcia, Mexico.

"The old man was on his deathbed when he related it to me. He was convinced that the spaceship had been sent from heaven by God."

According to the priest, Hernandez said he joined a posse of ranchers and lawmen — including a friend of Bat Masterson, the mysterious gunfighter and peace officer Dave Mather — in pursuit of the craft after they chased it out of Arizona into Mexico.

The then 23-year-old man said the spaceship looked like "a huge silver bowl" and flew ahead of the posse in spurts, staying about a half mile ahead at all times.

The amazing chase apparently continued for three grueling days. It included at least one encounter with an extraterrestrial who appeared to be armed.

"Mr. Hernandez said he was riding ahead of the others when a tiny man in silver-colored clothes confronted him with a 'hollow tube,'" said Father de Mola.

"In his defense Mr. Hernandez fired several shots from his .45. When he did, the little man flickered like the flame of a candle and disappeared.

"Later that day Mr. Mather literally vanished in the late 1880s. What happened to him, nobody knows."

The priest stopped short of suggesting that Mather was abducted by space aliens. "I draw no such conclusion," he said. "Mr. Hernandez told me the story. I am merely telling you."

Historian Delfino Mora was not quite so reserved in his assessment of Mather's fate. He said: "It's quite clear that space aliens had something to do with his death."

Russian roulette winner loses

Gene W. Cadman will never play Russian roulette again — the unlucky 46-year-old blew his brains out on his first try at the deadly game.

Meanwhile, Cadman's pal and fellow player Gary L. Hibbs, 45, of Platte City, Missouri, has been charged with voluntary manslaughter for instigating the game, said police.

"Evidently both parties had nandez said it was as if he had disappeared off the face of the Earth."

He disappeared, added the priest, at the same time the spaceship rose 200 feet into the air and took off over the horizon, never to be seen again.

"Mr. Hernandez did not know what to make of it but history seems to provide a clue," said Father de Mora. "Mr. Mather was a legendary figure in the American West but his death is a mystery. He

A firm in Houston, Tex., is marketing a "Snooty Scents" line of products reeking with its own versions of Obsession and Georgio perfumes for women and Polo and Aramis scents for men.

Bighearted kid gives away free trip to Disney World!

11-year-old donates prize to dying child

By SUSAN JIMISON

Generous Jeramy Wrinkle won a trip to Disney World — and gave it away so a dying child could go in his place.

Officials of Disney World and Delta Airlines were so impressed when the 11-year-old fifth-grader from Olathe, Kans., donated his prize that they offered him another free trip to the amusement park.

Now he and his family will spend two nights and three days as honored guests at the Florida resort.

"When he learned he was going to win the trip he wanted to give it away," the boy's father, Rodney Wrinkle, told The NEWS. "He was worried that a child might not make it another year and he knew he could always take the trip later.

"He came and asked me and I said, 'You do what you want with it, son.' He's a good kid."

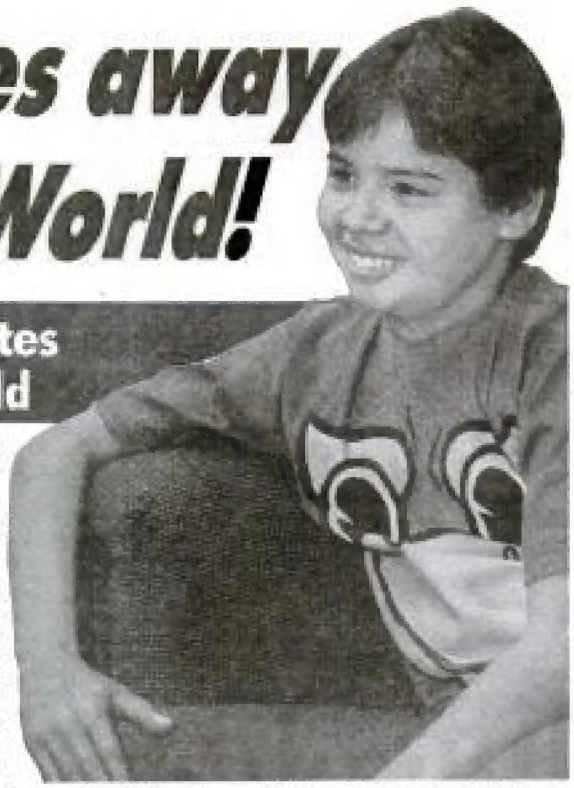
Jeramy was selected by a local television program as an exceptional child and winner of the prize after he racked up an incredible record in baseball and football. The boy was very pleased with his honor, but he didn't feel right in accepting it.

"He has a friend who has leukemia," Wrinkle said. "It bothers him. He wanted to do something for sick kids."

When the television station announced its winner, Jeramy told them what he wanted to do with his prize.

The station contacted the Dream Factory — an organization that grants wishes to ill children — and gave the trip to an ailing child.

Days later Jeramy learned he'd won his prize again, this time for his generosity and concern for others.



GENEROUS Jeramy Wrinkle wanted a dying child to go in his place on free trip to the Magic Kingdom.

Lottery fanatic's lucky numbers win

Luckless Jim DeSantis played the same lottery numbers every week for a year until he missed one time — and lost a whopping $8 million jackpot.

"I would have won it all because no one else played the same numbers," said the forlorn familyman.

"I was in a state of shock at first, but there is not a helluva lot I can do about it."

DeSantis, 40, has bought $5 worth of California Lotto tickets each week for the past year, playing the numbers 44, 12, 39, 36, 2 and 47.

But on November 18, he was called into work at a newspaper 1½ hours early and didn't take time to stop by a neighborhood store and buy his tickets.

The next day he heard the bad news.

"I was numb . . . like anyone else would be who just let $8 million slip through their fingers," he told The NEWS.

"But I can't blame anyone but myself.

"I had time to go by the store and buy the tickets. I just didn't do it."

DeSantis said lottery officials gave him a few consolation prizes — a jacket, T-shirt and eight $1 lottery tickets.

"My wife was a bit upset when she heard about it," he said.

"She used to scold me for buying the tickets, but she does not say anything anymore."

He still plays the same numbers which have no special significance.

"I wouldn't dare change now."

Asked what he would have done with $8 million, DeSantis said, "I would have paid off my house, moved to Florida and gone fishin'."

"Let us hope that in time we will be able to look back on this . . . and get a laugh out of it," said Mark.

HOW TO READ ANYONE'S MIND

I know exactly what you are thinking right now.

You are quite intrigued. And most skeptical. You sincerely believe that is absolutely impossible. That no one can really read anyone else's mind. From miles away? Never!

You have every right to be unconvinced. "Mind-reading" is usually a stunt performed on TV or in a club. We all know that such demonstrations rely on some kind of secret gimmick.

That while it's great entertainment—it's an out and out fake. Certainly not the real thing.

The real thing—for use in real life—is what I am talking about. Like you, I was totally doubtful that it could ever be done "off-stage." Especially by the average person.

AT LAST! THE REVOLUTIONARY TECHNIQUE THAT TURNS FANTASY INTO SHEER REALITY!

Something happened that converted me from a die-hard cynic into a fervent believer. The "Mind-Read" Manuscript crossed my desk.

As a publisher, I read many manuscripts. Yet, this particular one caught my eye at once. I had heard about the author. He is a highly-gifted psychic with a record for pioneering in the field of extra-sensory perception.

His manuscript stunned me. Practically knocked me off my chair. Any lingering doubt I ever had about the "impossibility" of person-to-person mind communication went flying out the window!

I just couldn't believe my eyes. Here it was, in black and white. Written in simple language anyone could understand. An easy-to-learn break-through technique to enable an ordinary man or woman to read someone else's mind. Anytime. Anywhere. At will!

A TECHNIQUE SO POWERFUL IT MIGHT EVEN BE ILLEGAL!

My first inclination was to burn the manuscript. To destroy it entirely. In the wrong hands, it could be dynamite!

Then I had second thoughts. Why should I be a censor? I believe in a free press. So I printed up a limited edition for distribution only to those who will use the technique carefully and wisely within the law.

If you are such a person, I am more than willing to let you try it out without your risking one cent. That's how confident I am of the integrity and power of this most innovative technique.

Everything is explained in easy, step-by-step detail. No special experience or education is required. That's what makes it so workable.

START READING MINDS TO START A WHOLE NEW WONDERFUL LIFE!

Imagine what it would mean to you to have instant access to another person's thoughts whenever you wished.

You would have immediate, lifetime control over your family, friends, neighbors, business associates—even perfect strangers.

Like it or not, they would come under your direct personal domination. You would know what they were thinking at any given time. No one, not even the sharpest human, could hide a thing from you. Others might be fooled by their words. But not you!

You already know why. You would be able to read their inner-most, hidden thoughts. As clearly as if you were looking at the pages of a book set in type one inch high. Without their ever knowing about it! Unless you, yourself, told them!

Dealing with the opposite sex would be a pleasure. Imagine knowing in advance just what to expect from your date or mate. No more guesswork. No more wasted time. No more frustration. For once, you are boss!

And watch the money roll in. You could outnegotiate anyone in any business situation. "See-through" sales double-talk straight to the plain facts. No one gets the better of you. Not when you can read minds!

Whether you're quoting a price or asking for a raise, you'll never short-change yourself. You'll always know the other party's bottom line. And get it!

There's no "gamble" in gambling when you bet on a sure thing. You'll smile when you sit down to play poker or blackjack. When you know the other players' cards, it is hard to lose!

Fed up dad said the 'lad was out of control!'

Mom's ghost makes teen hoodlum turn over a new leaf!

By JOE BERGER

Teenage creep Harry Hearndon was a hardhearted hooligan who swiped cars, snatched old ladies' purses and seemed doomed to the life of a two-bit hood — until his mother's ghost set him on the road to righteousness!

"It's like I have a brand-new son," Harry's delighted dad Lionel told reporters in Whitley Bay, England. "And it happened literally overnight.

"The lad was totally out of control, doing all sorts of things he shouldn't have been doing — and now he's the most polite, considerate kid you can imagine. He's even been going to church.

"He swears he saw his late mother and she told him to mend his ways."

Hell-raising Harry had been hauled into court a dozen times and had been convicted of so many crimes by the time he was 15 that a juvenile court judge was ready to throw the book at him.

"The boy went off the deep end when my wife Muriel died of cancer three years ago," said longshoreman Lionel Hearndon, 51. "He loved his mother and losing her seemed to be more than he could handle.

"He started hanging around with the local toughs, stealing cars and roughing up women to get their loose change. I tried to bring him into line but the harder I tried, the worse he got."

Then the schoolboy scofflaw had an encounter that set his hair on end.

"I was in my room and I had just turned off the light to go to sleep," Harry recalled. "I was still sitting on the edge of the bed when suddenly I saw my mother standing there in the moonlight. My heart was pounding because I knew I was seeing a ghost. I started to say something and she said, 'Listen to me, son.'

"She said she was looking down on me every minute and the things I was doing were breaking her heart. She said to promise her I would not steal anymore and I would lead a life that would make her proud.

"I said, 'I promise, mom, I promise.' Then she said, 'I love you' and just disappeared.

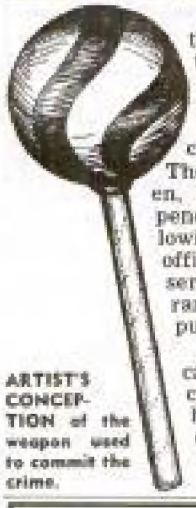
"I never saw her again."

The former teen terror now works at a gas station after school and is using a portion of his wages to repay the victims of his crimes.

Now, ex-hooligan's a model citizen

"His teachers and the juvenile workers say he suddenly became the most hardworking, cooperative kid around," his father said. "It's amazing. I have no doubt that he saw his mother's spirit and she's the one who straightened him out. That is just the sort of thing she would do."

Girl charged with assault and battery in lollipop attack



ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of the weapon used to commit the crime.

A 15-year-old girl threw her lollipop at the assistant principal of her school — and wound up facing assault and battery charges for her deed.

The unidentified Methuen, Mass., girl was suspended from school following the incident but officials thought it was serious enough to warrant even more severe punishment.

The girl tossed the candy at Assistant Principal Sheila Cunningham, breaking her glasses, but Miss Cunningham was not injured.

Steamer saves solo sailor in dire straits

A Canadian trying to sail across the Atlantic alone was rescued from his smashed yacht by a freighter off the coast of Africa.

Andrew Szonyi's wife, Harriet, said her husband's sailboat had lost its mast and rudder and was drifting aimlessly when the freighter found him and took him aboard.

Szonyi, 53, a professor at the University of Toronto, had intended sailing his 30-foot boat from the Canary Islands and was headed for Barbados when the mishap occurred.

After failing time and time again, you're convinced by now that the only thing that's ever going to work for you is a weight loss trick that requires no effort and lets you quietly enjoy your favorite and delicious fattening foods.

In your opinion, what an 'ideal weight loss method' should do is:

First of all, STOP YOU FROM PUTTING ON MORE WEIGHT, and

Secondly, MELT AWAY EXCESS FAT THAT YOU'VE ACCUMULATED OVER THE YEARS. All this, of course, while the 'ideal weight loss method of your dreams' does all the work and you watch yourself getting thinner even though you continue eating anything you like!

WELL, THAT'S PRECISELY WHAT THIS NEW ACCELERATED WEIGHT LOSS METHOD MAY DO FOR YOU!

LOSING weight is a two-step process. The first step is the easiest one: You have to stop gaining more weight. The second step is more difficult to achieve: You have to get rid of previously accumulated fat. Most weight loss methods don't have a problem with step one, but they do with step two.

Dual-Action SVELTEX does not just stop you from gaining. Its most important objective is MELTING AWAY PREVIOUSLY ACCUMULATED WEIGHT!

It's easy for anybody to understand what may happen when calories no longer get a chance to turn into ugly fat, and previously accumulated fat is being melted away while you rest. You may lose weight so fast that it takes only a couple of days for people to start asking questions about your new figure. And only one short week later, when looking in the mirror, you, yourself, may have a hard time believing that what you're seeing is really YOU!

RESULTS ARE GUARANTEED!

We invite you to try Dual-Action SVELTEX without any obligation. All we ask is that you give Dual-Action SVELTEX two weeks to completely convince you that this NEW ACCELERATED WEIGHT LOSS METHOD is the 'miracle' you've been waiting for and that it simply CANNOT FAIL! If, in this short time, you're not genuinely delighted with the results, simply return the unused portion and we'll cheerfully and promptly refund the purchase price you paid, no questions asked!

Movie mogul's messy mansion

Big shot's army of cats tore his house to shreds!

Millionaire movie mogul Reuben Mamoulian won fame and fortune as director of Broadway plays like Oklahoma! and movies like the Oscar-winning Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. But Mamoulian lived out his final days a forgotten man, in a dank, old mansion filled with garbage and overrun by cats.

Mamoulian, left, in a 1984 photo, and his wife Azadia had as many as 30 cats roaming their once-swanky Beverly Hills home when the director died at the age of 90. The Victorian furniture and oriental rugs had been ripped to shreds by the animals.

"If you are out of the public eye, people forget about you," said an attorney representing Azadia Mamoulian. "He got old, ill and eccentric."

In his heyday, Mamoulian directed the first Broadway production of Porgy and Bess and films starring Maurice Chevalier, Fred Astaire, Cyd Charisse and Tyrone Power.

WORLD'S HOTTEST GOSSIP

Fashion critic brands Prince Andy's wife 'world's ugliest gal'

WHICH ONE IS THE HORSE?

Prince Andrew's plump and plain wife Sarah Ferguson was reportedly in tears after Britain's top fashion expert savaged her in a stinging magazine article calling her the "ugliest woman alive."

Incredibly, clothes critic Paul Mathur turned terribly catty in a column in fashionable Blitz magazine writing that:

"Andrew settled down to married life with the ugliest woman alive — but he must have taken solace from the fact that she isn't (crazy).

"Badly dressed, fat and vacant — but not mad."

If this wasn't enough to leave poor Fergie sobbing, 'W' magazine, often called Britain's fashion bible, lure into the poor royal for dressing like a "charlady."

Commenting on one skintight pink her clothes seem chosen to highlight her weaknesses rather than flatter her womanly curves."

About another outfit, 'W' said: "At her worst in droopy flower print dresses, Fergie is uncannily reminiscent of a charlady."

Finally, 'W' blasted Sarah for the style of her fiery red hair.

"Too often, her hair, truly her crowning glory, is stiff and overdone." — London News of the World.

CRUEL fashion magazines say Prince Andrew's wife Sarah Ferguson is a dog when it comes to looks and she dresses like a peasant.

Ex-dictator lives miserable life as a henpecked hubby

Baby Doc Duvalier

One of the world's most brutal and feared dictators, Baby Doc Duvalier of Haiti, is now living in misery, constantly being nagged and berated by his shrewish wife Michelle.

Incredibly, the man who terrorized thousands of people with the goons of his death-squad police is now a henpecked hubby living a lonely life in exile in sunny Cannes, France.

"He does seem henpecked," says a source. "What Michelle says goes.

"She's making Baby Doc's life a misery with her complaints."

Baby Doc and Michelle reportedly fled Haiti with a whopping $750 million fortune to France, the only nation that would accept the exiled dictator who is marked for death by his people. Now, trapped behind the heavily guarded walls of a fabulous estate near sunny Cannes, Baby Doc lives like a lonely bird imprisoned in a gilded cage. And miffed wife Michelle is furious because the snooty French refuse to socialize with her.

"It sickens people that she is covered in gold and diamonds while her people are starving," said the source.

"She wants to move to some other country where she feels she might be accepted into society."

And you thought you had problems. — London Daily Express.

911 miracle!

Cool-headed medic helps mom save her choking child

By DICK VANCE

Grateful mom Eva Barton and her 2-year-old son Trevor were all smiles after a frantic 911 call put Eva in touch with an emergency medic — who helped her save her baby's life.

The drama unfolded when towheaded Trevor started to choke on an animal cracker at the family's Long Island, N.Y., home.

The desperate mother tried the Heimlich maneuver twice without success, then called for help.

She was immediately switched to medic Keith Gurlides at Nassau Medical Center.

"I was petrified," the woman recalled. "I dialed 911 and he (Gurlides) told me I must be calm. He kept repeating that as he told me to lay the baby on the floor and tilt his head back. I told him Trevor's teeth were clenched and he told me to pry them apart.

"I removed a piece of cracker smaller than the tip of my finger and he started breathing."

Doctors say Trevor came through his ordeal just fine.

Gurlides, 31, said it was his first telephone rescue since officials installed a new system that automatically switches medical emergency calls to a trained medic. "You saved my baby's life," relieved Eva told him later.

HAPPY mom Eva Barton dialed 911 and talked to a quick-thinking medic who helped the panicked mother save her son Trevor's life.

OOPS! Veranda Rasch, right, was spooked by TV cameras and lost out on a shiny new car.

MY MODESTY COST ME A NEW CAR

Maidenly modesty lost Veranda Rasch a shiny new Oldsmobile Firenza!

The college student who is studying physical therapy stood for three days with her hand resting on her dream car in a contest sponsored by a McAlester, Okla., car dealership.

She knew if she took her hand off the car, she'd lose her chance at the prize, but when a TV camera zoomed in on her she realized her pants were undone and reached down to button her britches. "I didn't realize what I'd done until I looked at the judge and saw the expression on her face," said 26-year-old Miss Rasch, who was one of two contestants still going at the time she lost the competition.

She reaches to button up her pants — and loses 'hand on' competition

"It was upsetting, but it was my fault.

"I lost the contest because of modesty, but it didn't really make any sense.

"I was wearing three pairs of pants at the time. It was just habit."

Veranda and 19 other contestants had braved freezing cold and constant discomfort to compete for the 1987 car. They were allowed a five-minute break every hour and a 15-minute break once every six hours, but otherwise were required to stand with one hand on the car for days on end.

They were not allowed to move their hand or to lean against anything.

The competitors could not sleep unless they did so standing up with their hand still on the car.

"It was exhausting," Veranda recalled.

"But I was gonna win it. Everyone knew I would win it. I felt like I could at least go one more night."

Disaster destroyed Veranda's hopes for a new car when a camerawoman from a local TV station barged through the ropes cordoning off section surrounding the contestants and aimed her camera at the unbuttoned pants.

Veranda's fellow contestants had been teasing Veranda about the fact that her outer layer of clothing was unbuttoned.

The camera zoomed in on Veranda's pants and Veranda snatched her hand off the car, turned modestly away from the camera and buttoned up.

With that, she lost the contest.

THIS GHOULISH TRADE MUST BE STOPPED!

Fat-cat collectors buying shrunken heads — of babies

These tiny shrunken heads, each less than the size of a man's fist, were once those of South American babies. The infants, just a few months old, were members of the Schuar tribe which inhabits the rain forests of Ecuador.

In an act both pitiful and shocking, mothers suffocate their children so they can sell the heads for $300.

Today the horrifying objects are hanging in the studies of wealthy Europeans.

This gruesome trade was uncovered by British photographer John Wright, 44, when he stumbled on the "black market" during a photographic safari on the slopes of the Eastern Andes.

"I couldn't believe it at first," said Wright.

"But when I started hearing rumors of this dreadful trade, I put out the word that I was interested in buying a head.

"Eventually I got a lead, and found myself in a village talking to a local dealer who smuggles dozens of heads into Europe and America.

"We met in a small cafe, and he showed me a sample he brought wrapped in paper in an ordinary plastic shopping bag."

Over the next week, Wright learned the full details of the grisly trade in innocent human flesh: "These people are very primitive. They're known as Jibaros, which means savages, and they're only 44,000 strong.

"The men wear the shrunken heads of their enemies around their waist quite openly, believing they draw the rival's strength from them.

"But this peddling of children's heads is a whole new thing, and they're being manipulated by unscrupulous dealers who just want to make fast money.

"All the women want is an easier life.

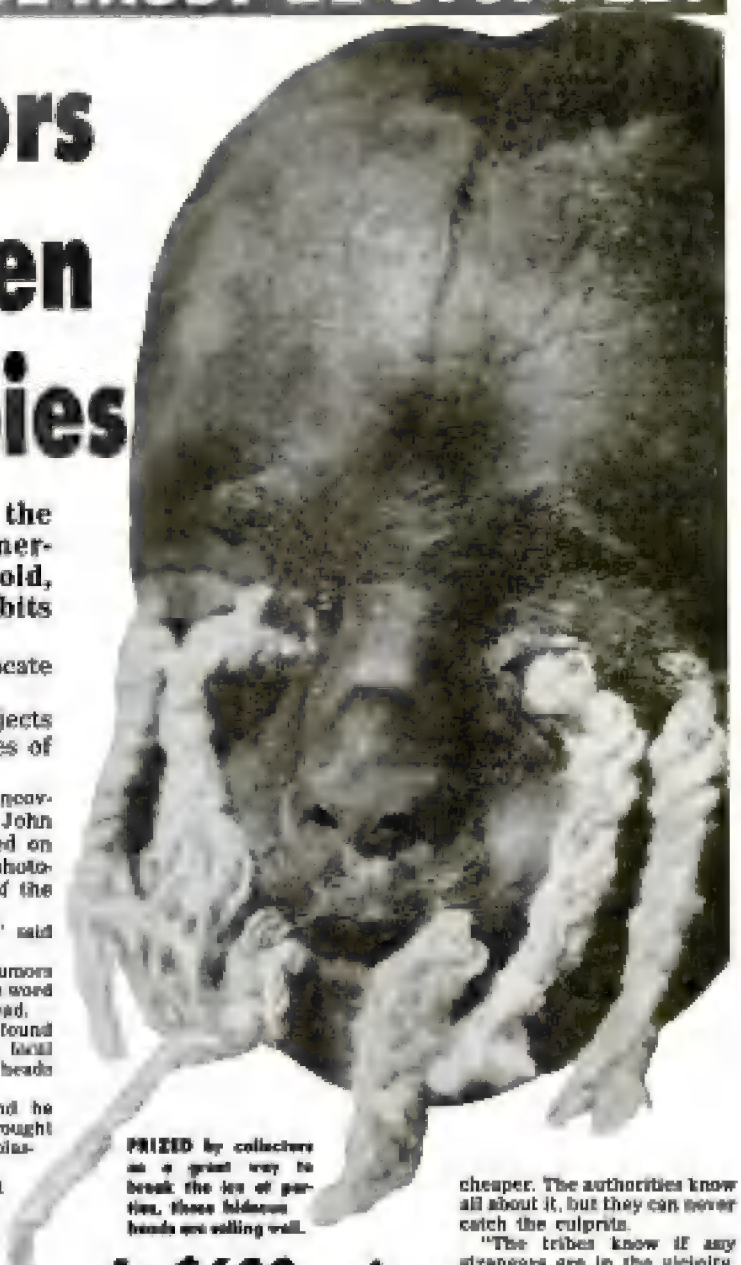
"They'll get $300 from the dealer, who in turn will sell the heads for $600 each.

"Maybe the woman will buy a transistor radio with the proceeds.

"I've talked with them, and they don't have any conciences at all about what they're doing."

Deep in the jungle, squatting on a blanket on the floor of a hut, Wright learned how the mothers suffocated their tiny offspring when they were between 4 and 6 months old.

ACTUAL SIZE! Heads of infants are cheaper and easier to shrink than those of adults, says an expert.



PRIZED by collectors as a great way to break the ice at parties, these hideous heads are selling well.

At $600 apiece kids' skulls are quite a bargain, say evil dealers

"Once a person reaches adult age, the skull is much harder and more difficult to remove. You can buy an adult head for up to $35,000. The cheaper. The authorities know all about it, but they can never catch the culprits.

"The tribes know if any strangers are in the vicinity, and the heads will just disappear . . . and, of course, when the children are so young, they're not missed."

On a pretext of wanting to show customers back home, Wright was able to photograph several of the young victims' heads.

"It seems that the best customers are Germans and Americans," he says.

"Apparently it's a real talking point when they can produce one of these at a cocktail party."

Charity sued over jarring Jell-O jump

A secretary is suing the Leukemia Society saying she suffered a broken ankle and other injuries — jumping into a tub of Jell-O.

Geri Kiefer claimed the Jell-O hadn't jelled when she leaped into a 500-gallon tub at a Leukemia Society fund-raising event in Waukesha, Wis.

The tub contained "nothing more than colored water," she claimed in a $100,000 damage suit.

Her lawsuit claimed the Society's Milwaukee chapter solicited contestants for the annual "Gelatin Jump" four years ago. A spokesman at Leukemia Society headquarters

Hemorrhoid Sufferers Get Dramatic Relief

Doctor says, "It's A Breakthrough! At Last: A Fast, Natural, Painless, New Method."

By J.D. Van Allen

Now, a free consumer report reveals how an Iowa doctor's natural and painless home method can help reverse the cause of your hemorrhoid pain ending your suffering, and discomfort — quickly and easily — without messy ointments or suppositories.

Dr. Gerald G. McCarthy, who is making health care history with his new, patient-applied method says, "Because it's such a simple concept, most can hardly believe the immediate relief." He claims, "Even in severe cases, the patient usually feels more comfortable sitting than standing!"

"Best of all," he adds, "the relief is obtained inconspicuously in your home or out in public — at the office or in your car — without embarrassment," says McCarthy.

Other doctors across the nation are also reporting breakthrough results with the method. Harold Glick, M.D., Chief of Surgery, Mt. Sinai Hospital in Miami states, "I see and treat many patients for hemorrhoidal conditions... and can attest to its effectiveness..."

Though it doesn't rank with the discovery of Salk Vaccine or penicillin" adds McCarthy, "it is a fast-acting, natural method that really works and will give millions of hemorrhoid sufferers a new lease on life."

Hero dog drags boy from icy pond

BEAR is our hero, says the Perkins kids, Martha, Sarah and little Zeke. The mixed breed pooch pulled Zeke out of the pond and then went back to help the two girls after they fell in.

In a heartwarming display of a dog's devotion to her master, a mongrel pooch named Bear saved toddler Zeke Perkins from a watery grave — when she leaped into the icy waters of a pond and pulled the boy to safety!

The 4-year-old tyke was only seconds away from death after he and his two sisters broke through untested ice on a pond near their home in New Haven, Vt.

By DICK DONOVAN

But heroic Bear — a Newfoundland and collie mix — plunged into the bone-numbing water, grabbed her drowning master's coat collar in her teeth and pulled him onto stronger ice.

Then the amazing superdog turned around and backed up so that little Zeke could grab her tail. Then the Bear pulled him across the ice to safety.

Knowing Zeke was out of danger, the Bear went back to where 9-year-old Martha and 7-year-old Sarah were still struggling and used her body to steady them as they pulled themselves out of the icy water.

"We don't like to think about it, but if the Bear hadn't been there, I really think Zeke would have drowned," thankful mom Mary Perkins said.

She said the children had been told they could skate on the ice of a small pond that had been tested earlier by their father Dale. But they apparently became bored and went to skate on a larger pond with ice that hadn't been tested.

"The Bear is Zeke's constant companion and she tagged along," the 34-year-old mother of five said. "The kids sat down on the ice and when the Bear sat down with them, the combined weight was too much and they broke through.

"I'm just thankful that the Bear was there."

She said Zeke later admitted that his harrowing brush with death taught him a very important lesson.

"He said, 'Mom, I learned never to go anywhere without the Bear.'" Mrs. Perkins explained.

And what did the Bear get as her reward for her lifesaving heroics?

"Just love," Mrs. Perkins said with a laugh.

. . . and then goes back to help save two more kids!

Thanks, honey!

A gold bracelet given to him by his wife saved Benito Torres' hand during a fight in Trenton, N.J. His opponent took a swing at him with a machete and hit his wrist but the bracelet deflected the blow.

Yes, sir, that's my BABY!

Bouncing baby boy Raymond Wegrzynek weighed a whopping 14 pounds, 10 ounces when he came into the world at a Newark, N.J., hospital — and the king-size tyke was already too big for his baby duds when dad Edmund and mom Yolanda took him home six days later. But robust Raymond fell far short of the biggest baby record set by a 22-pound, 8-ounce boomer born

Mr. Nice Guy loved me & left me high and dry

Dear Dotti: I went down to my home town to visit and met this guy who was very nice to me.

He was romantic, sweet and almost everything a girl could possibly want.

He wanted me to stay down there with him and so I did. I left my family, and my job, and had a bit of a rough time supporting myself.

Around the second month together he started changing toward me.

It got to the point that he'd come to see me with hickies on his neck from kissing other girls.

I'd try to talk to him about it, but he would get mad everytime.

He left me just like that without any warning and moved in with his ex-girlfriend.

The last time I saw him, he said he would be seeing me more often. It really seemed he was changing back to the way he'd been at first.

The day after that was when he started living with his ex-girlfriend.

I still do love him a lot. I moved back to the city, but now I want to go down to my home town and try to get him to start living with me again.

Do you think Mr. Wonderful really loves me? — Lost in Love, Texas

Lost in Love: You're yesterday's cold cup of coffee to that guy, honey. He's a small town two-timer. Stay away from him.

Send letters to: Dotti, Weekly World News, 600 S. East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462

Sister's rug rat drives me batty

Dear Dotti: I sure could use your advice on something that has been bothering me for a year or so now.

My sister has a child about three years old. When they come over to visit my husband and me, I'd rather not answer the door, but I do. They come in and sit their bottoms on the couch and let their child run wild and don't discipline him at all.

Well, they may yell at him once but he ignores them and keeps on doing what he is doing, like kicking the dog or dumping ash trays on the floor. I do try to keep him under control, but I think it is his mother's place to discipline the child. I also think she should at least have a little respect for my house. — No Discipline, Louisana

Dear No Discipline: Tell your family that your house means more to you than their little rug rat and that he's got to stay in their car while they visit. After he's trashed their vehicle, they'll see your point.

Girlfriend's dog always tags along

Dear Dotti: My girlfriend has been driving me crazy. Everywhere we go, she has to bring along her dog. We don't go out to dinner anymore, and the only chance we get to see a movie is at the drive-in because the mangy mutt has to come along too.

I can't stand it anymore. Last week I told her to ditch the dog or else I was leaving her.

I haven't seen her since, but she's called a couple of times and claims to have got rid of the pest. Do you think she's lying? — Dugged, California

Dear Dugged's Girlfriend: Don't dump that pooch — dump Dugged. That pup needs you more than you need a mean-mouthed mutt kicker of a guy.

Being daddy is a tough job

Dear Dotti: I'm divorced and remarried.

My new wife has two children of her own and I have one of mine.

I try to be a father figure to her oldest son, who's 4, but it's really hard trying to meet my child's needs as well as his. Don't get me wrong. I love him as if he was mine. But I've been having problems getting him to do what I tell him. He accepts me as his father but he won't listen to me.

My wife's other son is 2 years old. I've taken care of him since he was 3 months old, so he's no bother, but I only had the oldest since he was about 3.

How do I solve this problem? — Second Dad, Ohio

Dear Second Dad: Take the little stinker out for a weekend's camping alone. When he finds out you're the only one dispensing Spam and crackers and bugs, he'll listen up.

Confidential

Dear Daring to Go in Tennessee: She has all the panties you need.

Dear The Dame in Ohio: Be it now, sweetie, or there'll be tears before bedtime.

Dear Retired Cupcake in Los Angeles: Time for you to do a fill. DDT the worm.

Dear Phat Stuph in Iowa: Before you primp, you gotta pump — iron, that is.

Dear Dumbo in B.C.: Give it a try. But I bet he catches on and you'll be in big, big trouble.

Dear Tempted in Texas: Whoa, cowboy! If the hubby finds out you might be heading for Boot Hill.

Dear Worried in Kansas: I'd be worried, too. Why not tell him the truth? He just might understand and you may survive. What have you got to lose?

Gal's road-hog feasts inspire pure poetry

Editors: I was so incredibly touched by your story "Road Hog" about the poor soul who was forced to scrape her food off the roadside (Weekly World News, October 20) that I felt compelled to write this bit of verse on the subject.

The hours were long, the breaks few and far between, but I feel that the rewards of my effort — this tiny and somehow melancholy poem — cry out to a cruel world for the soul of one lost and very hungry lady . . .

Road Hog

A rustle in the bushes,
The glint of sharpened nails,
Picking out the flesh
From the shells of rotting snails;
Looking for a possum,
Or perhaps a little mouse —
It's the only reason
She ever leaves the house!

Road Hog! Road Hog!
Looking for a kill —
Road Hog! Road Hog!
We hope you get your fill!

Baring crooked teeth,
Sporting a big grin,
Knowing that the protein
Will always keep her thin;
Hoping to find dinner
Before the blood congeals —
Stay away from roadsides:
YOU COULD BE HER NEXT MEAL!
— C.H., Leesburg, Va.

Killer cigar's a good idea

Editors: That story in your January 29 paper about the guy who had his head blown off by an exploding cigar was the most wonderful thing I've read in years.

Every poor nonsmoker who's ever had to sit and swallow someone else's secondhand smoke — especially cigar smoke — must have stood up and applauded when they saw that. Smokers are the most rude, insensitive people in the world and I'm overjoyed that there's now one less smoke-belching creep around to make life miserable for the rest of us.

You said the bum got the exploding cigar from a member of a militant anti-smoking group. I would personally like to invite that group to open up a meat and make more of those tricky cigars.

Meanwhile, keep up the good work. Your story really made my day. — K.L., Boston

Hey, if you liked that one, we hope you caught the stories about the little kids broiled in microwave ovens and the gold miner eaten alive by crocodiles. By the way, have you got a light? — Editors

'Mind Power' diet is a big laugh

Editors: The article you printed about the psychic's Mind Power diet January 8 gave me the biggest belly laugh I've had all year. My flab never jiggled as much as when I read that crazy four-step plan. I meditated and imagined myself eating a rich, super-fattening meal with dessert. The result? I later gorged myself to contented bliss, as usual.

ROADSIDE gourmet Rachel Isabson stalks her dinner.

big rear decided to sit out that discussion.

Finally, step No. 4 recommends cucumber snacks for Aries. That's fine, because I eat 'em smothered in Russian dressing. Most diets are silly or risky but this one will increase my dress size "in just 7 days." — L.G., Norristown, Pa.

Countess Sophia says that while you've busting your pantaloon gut laughing at her dead-serious approach to dieting, hundreds of others are reporting tremendous success using her mind over matter technique. "Those who scoff are usually those who've given up hope and must pretend they don't mind going through life looking like blimps," she says. We're not siding with either the psychic or the slob on this one. — Editors

Couple in their 70s have been practicing medicine 50 years

Mom & pop docs still going strong!

Doctor couple David and Ethel Platt have worked side by side for nearly half a century, curing the sick, treating the pain-racked and comforting the dying since the days when it cost a mere $35 to have a baby — and house calls were just two bucks apiece.

Now in their 70s, the dedicated husband-and-wife docs are still practicing family medicine full-time in Wilmington, Del. — and still keeping nighttime office hours for those who can't visit during the day.

"We have patients come in and ask, 'How long have I been coming here?' and I'll look back in their charts and say, 'Well, the first time you were here, you weighed seven pounds,'" David Platt said recently.

The Platts met as medical students in Pennsylvania and tied the knot shortly after David graduated in 1940.

Ethel graduated a year later, and except for David's four-year service hitch during World War 2, they have worked as a team ever since.

When the Platts hung up their first shingle almost 50 years ago, they charged $1 for an office visit and $2 for a house call. "But those were the days when steak was 39 cents a pound," Ethel recalled.

LOVEBIRDS David and Ethel Platt aren't exactly horse-and-buggy doctors — but they still make house calls.

Magician shot to death

Professor Marvo said he could stop bullet with his teeth — but he couldn't!

By JACK FOLEY

Marco Asprella shot and killed an unarmed magician but won't go to prison because he genuinely thought the guy would catch the bullet with his teeth!

"It's a most unusual case," said Ruben de Blanco, who prosecuted the 48-year-old gold miner from Azul, Argentina. "Murder is murder in my book.

"But jurors thought differently. They as much as said the magician was so good that Asprella had a right to believe he really was magic."

The bizarre drama unfolded when Professor Marvo, the magician, performed for a crowd of about 50 in a small tavern in Azul, said newspapers.

At the climax of the show, Marvo, 36, pretended to catch a bullet in his teeth after an assistant fired a pistol at his face.

In fact, the assistant fired a blank and the magician merely produced a bullet he had concealed in his mouth. But Asprella was convinced that Marvo caught the bullet.

He then produced a .45-caliber handgun yelled "Catch this one, Professor," — and fired the bullet that almost blew off the magician's head.

"It was a tragic misunderstanding," said Alfredo de Gouda, Asprella's attorney. "My client doesn't have much of an education and had been drinking at the show.

"He was stunned when he realized he killed the magician. All through his trial it was clear that he just didn't understand why Marvo didn't catch the bullet he put in his head.

"Mr. Asprella will never get over what happened," he added. "He's very sorry that anyone is dead." Although Asprella beat a charge of murder, he was convicted of the lesser crime of carrying a concealed weapon. For that he was fined $50 and given six months probation.

HERE COMES FUTURE-COP!

By KENNETH BURKHART

Japanese researchers have designed an amazing new line of robot cops that could replace human police officers by the year 2,000!

"This is the most important development in crime-fighting since the service revolver and police radio," Dr. Rudolf Strasser, a German criminologist and consultant to the firm that's making the robots, told newspaper reporters in Tokyo.

By the year 2000, robots will replace human police, says top crime expert

"These machines are virtually indestructible," he continued. "They have the strength of 10 men and the agility of athletes.

"A criminal would need the firepower of a small army to get the best of them in a showdown."

A prototype of the real-life Robocop, similar to the hero of last year's film of the same name, was unveiled at a recent exposition in Tokyo.

By all accounts that appeared in the media, the futuristic lawman stole the show.

Dr. Akio Miwa, one of the chief developers, told reporters the crime-stopping robots were designed for use in extremely dangerous situations, such as riot control and bomb threats.

"But our potential customers believe they will be useful in a much wider variety of situations," he added, "including routine patrols."

Unlike conventional robots, which are limited by computerized eyes and brains, the Japanese robot cops are operated by humans who sit in control rooms safe from harm's way.

"The eyes are actually television cameras that enable operators to see precisely what the robots are confronting," said the expert.

"The machines respond to commands transmitted from police headquarters.

"These robots don't have minds of their own by any means. They do only what they are told."

During the exposition Dr. Miwa's firm received orders from police agencies around the world — even though the robots won't be mass produced and ready for delivery for at the wave of the future," he said.

"By the turn of the century they will have made human officers obsolete in most areas of police work."

ACTOR Peter Weller, right, starred in the 1987 movie "Robocop."

Patient shoots doc after stalking his family for 3 years, cops say

By PETE COOKE

A psychologist and his wife tackled a gun-wielding mental patient after being wounded in an ambush by the woman who stalked their family for three years, authorities said.

Los Angeles police charged 30-year-old Kimberly Gracyalny with six counts of attempted murder in the bizarre attack.

Investigators said the shooting occurred as psychologist David Fox, 35, his wife, Deborah, and their four children arrived home after having dinner out.

Lt. Robert Kimball said the woman stepped out of the shadows and opened fire with a revolver as the family was getting out of their car.

Fox was shot in the arm as he and his family ran for cover around the back of the house with Miss Gracyalny in pursuit.

Mrs. Fox and the couple's 7-year-old daughter were grazed by bullets before the psychologist and his wife managed to wrestle the woman to the ground. "David Fox grabbed ahold of Miss Gracyalny and with the help of his wife, subdued the suspect," said Kimball. "They got her on the ground and held her until the police came."

According to Kimball, the shooting climaxed three years of terror for the Fox family.

Miss Gracyalny was treated by the psychologist for about a year, but "since 1983 Kimberly has been a constant source of harassment to Dr. Fox," said Kimball.

Fox said the woman has scaled a wall to get into his backyard, trespassed on his property on a weekly basis, vandalized his house and car and fired flashbulbs in front of the windows of his home at night.

The psychologist went to court in 1986 to get a court order requiring the woman to stay at least 300 feet from him and forbidding her from phoning him or his family. The order expires in 1989.

Kimball said Miss Gracyalny, who was held without bond, has refused to discuss her reasons for tormenting Fox and his family.

The psychologist, his wife and daughter were treated at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center after the shooting.

SUSPECT Kimberly Gracyalny listens in court after she was charged with attempted murder.

Chopper pilot saves drunk driver

A heroic helicopter pilot saved a drunk driver from certain death after the man fell asleep at the wheel in the path of a speeding freight train!

Tucson, Ariz., authorities said police helicopter pilot Glenn Bresch spotted a car driven by 38-year-old Frank Gagenon weaving down a highway before turning onto a set of railroad tracks where it got stuck.

Police spokesman Michael Conto said Gagenon passed out behind the wheel with a freight train bearing down on him.

The chopper pilot radioed cops on the ground then hovered just above the tracks as he aimed his searchlight at the oncoming train.

The engineer managed to stop the freight train about 200 feet from the car's rear bumper.

"The train never would have stopped, never would have seen him," Conto said. "The helicopter pilot is the hero."

"It's something new and a lot of defense attorneys are raising objections to it, but it has overwhelming public response," said the cops.

Incredibly, McNamara said motorists will have to pay the bills even if they aren't convicted of drunk driving, so long as police gives probable cause for the arrest, that's what caused the emergency response."

Dog lover takes in stray — it's a wolf

The "stray dog" Clayton Campbell ushered into his house paced back and forth for three hours before he realized it wasn't a dog at all — but a sharp-toothed wolf!

"I just caught him by the fur and led him on in to the house," said Campbell. "He was real gentle. He was calm, anyway." The man from Garden City, Kans., found out the truth about the animal when a news report noted that a wolf had escaped from the local zoo.

Campbell alerted zoo employees, who came and took back the wily wolf without incident.

Red bigwigs get boot for playing hooky

Romanian commie leaders saw red when they learned that five local party leaders had slipped away from their desks for a day of hunting — and booted them out of their cushy jobs!

Romania's daily party newspaper Scanteia didn't say what the shirkers were hunting, but one of the dunderheads was said to have been shot during the outing.

Commie bigwigs said the hunting fanatics should have been at work trying to figure out how to boost the country's sagging industrial production.

Cops in Gloucester, R.I., arraigned Duquette on a murder charge and released him on $40,000 bond.

Man on diet gets so hungry — he breaks into zoo!

Truck driver eats hippo!

By GEORGE SPARKS

A 300-pound truck driver slaughtered a zoo's hippopotamus, cut it into steaks and ate it for dinner!

"That fat pig ate the only hippo we ever had," zoo director Jacek Pazera told reporters in Koszalin, Poland. "It was only a baby.

Cops nab 300-pound suspect red-handed

"But it cost a fortune and it was the biggest attraction at our zoo."

Piotr Bek, 42, was charged with burglary and animal cruelty after police officers, acting on an anonymous tip, caught him eating a hippo steak with ketchup.

They said the hungry trucker broke into the zoo after dark and shot the helpless 141-pound baby.

Bek himself told reporters: "I must have been out of my mind to do it and I'm sorry I did.

"I had been on a diet for weeks and got so hungry I couldn't help myself. When I saw the zoo and started thinking about all the meat inside something just snapped.

"I climbed the fence and found the hippo, shot it, butchered it and carried the meat home in a plastic garbage bag. I know I'm guilty but I want everyone to realize that dieting was my downfall.

"If I hadn't been starving to death I never would have killed that hippo."

On the advice of his attorney, Bek refused to comment on the taste of the meat other than to say "it was fatty and had a gamey flavor." If convicted as charged, he likely will be fined heavily — and spend at least two years in jail.

"He deserves that and more," said Pazera. "Everybody loved that little hippo.

"I'm sick about what happened," he added. "I still can't believe it wound up on a dinner plate."

After his wife's tragic death, dad of 8 adopted kids vows . . .

We'll carry on without you, Mom

BRAVE dad Carlyle Boyd holds photo of his wife Nancy who died last fall. He's surrounded by the eight Korean kids he and his wife adopted

By SUSAN JIMISON

Grieving husband Carlyle Boyd has vowed to carry on after his beloved wife died tragically several months ago — leaving him to raise the eight adopted children they had taken on together.

"I promised my wife I'd keep the children together," Boyd, 43 of Williamsville, N.Y., told The NEWS. "I'll try to go on as if she were here and make sure the children are cared for.

"It will be tough, but she was a special lady and she left some very special kids behind. Their pictures don't tell how wonderful they are."

Nancy Boyd, a nurse, died when she suffered a massive heart attack following surgery to correct stomach problems. But before her death she had demonstrated the extent of her love and generosity by opening her home and heart to eight little Korean orphans.

The children — four boys adopted in 1985 and four girls adopted in 1986 — range in age from 3 to 9. When Nancy was alive, her income from nursing helped support the happy brood. Now that she's gone, Boyd must struggle to put food on the table.

Still grief-stricken, Boyd carries the terrible weight of his worries: How will he feed and care for his eight little ones alone, without his beloved mate?

"She took everything I wanted with her," he said. "She took her soul, her life, the joy we had together and the joy we shared with our children.

"She left me with eight beautiful children. It will be hard, but somewhere, somehow I will find the strength to do what I have to do."

Pennypincher cashes in big

A lot of people collect pennies but not like Warren Huldread. In 1973 the Elkhart, Ind., man bought a pickup truck with pennies.

And he just chalked out 500,000 more on a $5,000 down payment on a new Chevy!

"The word gets out that you save pennies," said Huldread. "Friends will say, 'Here's 10 pennies,' and I just throw them in the can."

Cops say heartbroken gal killed guy who jilted her

A jilted gal shadowed her former boyfriend for months, even renting the apartment next door, but when he refused to take her back she pulled a gun and opened fire, cops said.

Authorities in Carlsbad, Calif., charged 27-year-old Linda Ricchio with murdering Ronald Ruse, who was gunned down in front of his apartment door.

"She just could not accept their breakup," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert Lux.

According to investigators, Miss Ricchio had lived with Ruse, 28, for about five years when the couple split up last April.

Ruse, an auto mechanic, complained that Miss Ricchio refused to accept the fact that their relationship was over, and in November he obtained a court order to stop her from harassing him and his new girlfriend.

"She continually calls me at all hours of the day and night," Ruse said in his request for the court order.

"She shows up at my apartment and demands to come in," he said. "I have told her that I no longer want to see her. Today she showed up at my place of work and verbally harassed me in front of fellow workers and my supervisor. This is the second time in a week she has appeared at my workplace. My job is now in jeopardy."

Authorities said that two days before the shooting Miss Ricchio had rented the two-bedroom apartment next to Ruse's, frightening his new girlfriend so badly that she moved out.

Ruse was killed as he arrived home with a six-pack of beer and a sack of sandwiches after work. Police said Miss Ricchio fired five shots from a .38-caliber revolver, hitting Ruse twice.

Airline threatens to ground beefy stewardesses

HIGH-FLYIN' FATSOS TOLD TO TAKE OFF!

By JOE BERGER

The biggest blimps in the sky don't belong to Goodyear. They're the wide-bodied belles of Air Zimbabwe, whose stews sport so much shivering, quivering flab they can barely waddle down the aisle to pass out the peanuts.

"We have these big ugly Amazons pretending to be air hostesses," an Air Zimbabwe boss recently complained to reporters in the African nation.

And embarrassed airline officials are so fed up with all the excess baggage their gals are packing that they've given them six months to shape up or ship out.

If scores of Zimbabwe zeppelins don't slim down by late summer, they'll all be grounded beef, bigwigs have warned.

"It's humiliating to see the girls from other airlines walking through the airport looking so slender and pretty in their spiffy uniforms and then see our girls lumbering along behind like hippos searching for a mudhole," griped a company spokesman.

"Passengers say our stewardesses' thighs are so big they keep banging into them when they squeeze up and down the aisles. That doesn't create a very impressive image for the rest of the world, does it?"

. . . unless they go on crash diets and lose their excess baggage

The supervisor of stews says she doesn't know how she got stuck with so many dumpling damsels. But frequent fliers blame free leftovers for all those fabulous physiques.

"Anybody who doesn't believe in flying cows has never seen an Air Zimbabwe flight attendant in action," said British businessman Leland Klein. "Those gals are stuffing their faces from the minute they get on board.

"First they gobble up any extra lunches around, then they start munching the leftovers off passengers' trays. They're eating with one hand while they're picking up your tray with the other hand.

"And they have usually popped a button or two on their uniforms so there's a roll of fat bulging out somewhere.

"It's not an appealing sight."

Klein says service on an Air Zimbabwe jumbo jet is a jumbo joke — because the scale-crunching stews get too tuckered out to take care of everybody.

"By the time they waddle around waiting on everyone once, they looked so pooped you don't dare call them back for a refill or a pillow," he said.

Medical shocker!

Infant girl has a baby!

An infant girl was taken to a hospital in Shaoyang, China, where doctors immediately rushed her into surgery — to remove a fetus from her belly by re-sarean section!

By SUSAN JIMISON

The unidentified month-old mom was reportedly in good condition after delivery of a 2-pound 3-ounce fetus, which did not survive the procedure.

"This is a very rare — but not unknown — phenomenon which we believe comes about when one twin absorbs the body of its brother or sister while the two are still in the womb," Dr. Wang Ku Mig, a pediatric surgeon who was caring for the little girl, told the Shaoyang Daily.

"The child's parents are understandably upset, but the baby is completely out of danger now and we believe she will be normal."

According to news accounts, the infant "mother" was born November 25 and sent home a few days later in excellent health. But after a few weeks the baby's mother noticed that she was not eating properly and was restless and irritable.

Within a few days a swelling in her abdomen became obvious and 40 days after her birth her parents returned with her to the hospital to find out what was ailing her.

"The doctors told me she probably had an intestinal blockage and they recommended X rays," the mother told a reporter. "We were shocked when the X rays came back.

"They clearly showed a fetus inside my daughter's body. It had a good-sized head, spinal column, legs and arms. It appeared properly developed, although the body was small.

"Doctors who examined it later said it could never have

Teenage boys like TV better than anything!

Despite what you might have guessed, America's teenage boys would rather watch TV than anything else they can think of.

In a nationwide survey, 38 percent of boys 12 to 18 said staring at the tube is their favorite pastime. Playing sports topped the list of 18 percent of the guys and 13 percent said they liked fooling around with their computers more than anything else.

Listening to music, attending after-school club meetings and visiting the mall were further down the list.

News about water is hard to swallow

Long-term drinking of chlorinated water may increase a person's chances of getting bladder cancer by 80 percent, say experts.

Unfortunately, three out of four Americans get their water from chlorinated sources. And that's not likely to change because the chemical kills disease-causing organisms that pose a greater threat to public health than the cancer itself.

"Chlorination is one of the great modern medical advances of the 20th century," said Dr. Lawrence Garfinkle, the American Cancer Society's vice president for epidemiology and statistics.

"Without chlorination we would be back in the 1900s, dropping off from infectious diseases."

A whopping 45,000 Americans were diagnosed with bladder cancer last year and over 10,000 of them will die from the disease.

It strikes men three times as often as women and smoking plays a key role, the cancer society said.

Bored little girl joins the jet set

An 11-year-old girl sneaked aboard an airplane and flew halfway around the world because she was bored and looking for adventure!

A spokesman for Lufthansa Airlines said Nuren Oruc of Frankfurt, Germany, slipped through three security checkpoints and boarded a Boeing 747 flight to Melbourne, Australia, where immigration officials nabbed her.

The airline flew the child back to Frankfurt free of charge.

"After all, she slipped through our own checkpoints," a spokesman said.

Her doctors gave up all hope

Husband's psychic power kept wife's cancer at bay . . . for 12 years!

By HENRY WEBER

Cancer victim Carmen Ballerin lived 12 years longer than docs thought possible because her devoted husband willed her to, say experts.

By all accounts the 72-year-old woman should have died in 1976 after specialists diagnosed inoperable cancer of the brain, liver and lungs.

But the lady lived happily and free of pain until January 3 — when Gonzalo Ballerin perished in a car crash and could no longer keep her cancers in check with the sheer power of his mind.

"This is definitely a case for the history books," cancer specialist Julian Cantero told reporters in Catarosa, Spain.

"To my knowledge this is the first and only instance of a husband keeping his wife alive against all odds simply by willing it and with his love.

"I'll never forget the day I told Mr. Ballerin that his wife had terminal, inoperable cancer," he continued. "He put his hands over his face and started to cry.

"Then he stopped rather suddenly and said: 'You are wrong, doctor. As long as there is a breath in my body Carmen will live. I will not let her die.'"

Within days the woman's cancer was in total remission — where it remained for the next 12 years. "Mrs. Ballerin was a very weak-willed woman," said Dr. Cantero. "In my opinion she had nothing to do with willing her disease into remission.

"She gave her husband full credit and I agree with her. Twelve hours after he died she was back in the hospital, her cancer raging. Two hours later she was dead."

Eerily, Mrs. Ballerin told longtime friend and neighbor Gloria Baeza Soler that her life was finished a half hour after learning that her husband had died.

"It was enough to break your heart," said the woman. "Carmen calmly told me that she would not have the strength to live without Gonzalo to help her.

"For the first time I saw fear in her eyes.

"It was like she knew that his love was the only thing that could keep her alive. They were the closest, most loving couple I have ever known. His devotion was remarkable."

Psychiatrist Angel Garcia Graves has written two books on the role of the mind in beating cancer.

He told reporters: "There is certainly no shortage of cancer victims who have willed the disease into remission or even oblivion.

"But I have never heard of anything to match this case, which should give new hope to victims suffering from cancer everywhere."

Nerve-jarring rescue's just plane scary

A spin in a little two-seater airplane turned to tragedy when the craft slammed through the window of a 19th-story condominium in Destin, Fla. A passenger was killed and the pilot was critically injured in the spectacular crash — but miraculously, no one in the building was hurt.

The pilot was found dangling by his seat belt 19 stories above the ground.

Rescuers wired the wreckage to the building until the victims were removed, then carefully lowered it to the ground with a block and tackle, left.

A security guard at the 20-story Hidden Dunes condo said the 19th floor was empty because construction workers were remodeling the building's penthouses.

"It was bad, but it could have been worse if someone had been sitting in their living room there watching TV," one rescuer said.

Today's Tooth Fairy is no cheapskate, by gum!

The American Academy of Dentistry has good news for kids. The Tooth Fairy is paying bigger bucks for teeth these days.

Academy researchers say the Tooth Fairy shelled out an average of $1 a tooth in 1987, up from 85 cents in 1983 and a measly 12 cents at the turn of the century.

But the academy says parents who help the Tooth Fairy out should avoid stuffing paper money under those pillows — because kids would much rather have silver jingling in their jeans.

That means the Fairy should carry rolls of quarters.

Houseplants help clean polluted air

Houseplants aren't just pretty to look at — they can help you stay healthy by cleaning up the air you breathe, too.

Green growing things remove formaldehyde and benzene from the air, preventing respiratory problems and cancer, a recent NASA study shows.

The plants remove pollutants as part of their natural reaction to light, drawing in carbon dioxide mixed with pollutants, then breaking down the dangerous pollutants in their roots.

The best plants for cleaning the air and helping you breathe easier are heart leaf philodendron, elephant ear philodendron, lacy tree philodendron, golden pothos and airplane or spider plant.

Women pick up station wagon to rescue man

Four women lifted a station wagon to free a trapped man while a gaggle of men just watched!

"I wouldn't be here now if it wasn't for the women," Joseph Burch, 25, told reporters in Valparaiso, Ind.

The drama began when Burch jacked up his car in a parking lot to adjust the clutch. After he slipped under it, it fell. And the women — including his mother, Mary, and wife, Cheryl, sprang into action.

Burch was hospitalized in fair condition, officials said.

Postman carried the mail 60 years & never missed a day

Special delivery!

Silver-haired Stan Bator is a dedicated public servant who has never missed a day or failed to make a delivery — in his 60 years as a hard-driving mailman!

Even now, at the age of 87, the spry old postman never lets rain nor sleet nor dark of night deter him from his appointed rounds in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts.

And while his son hied out for the sun-kissed beaches of Florida after 38 years of postal service, retirement is the last thing on Stan Bator's mind.

"No siree! Not me! I can't retire. I still have a lot of work to do," he said with an emphatic nod that lets you know right off the bat there's no ifs, ands or buts about it.

And he's never been afraid to bend a few rules or ruffle a few feathers in his dam-the-torpedoes determination to get the U.S. Mail through — no matter what the consequences.

By DICK DONOVAN

"I'm my own man," he declared with no small degree of pride.

"That's not the half of it," sighed Pittsfield Postmaster Paul Matthews.

"All of our independent contractors are pretty independent, but there's no one like him. He's kind of a legend in the Berkshires."

But his rep didn't come easy.

He had to earn it. He's now down to two routes, but for decades he delivered mail to every rural post office in the county.

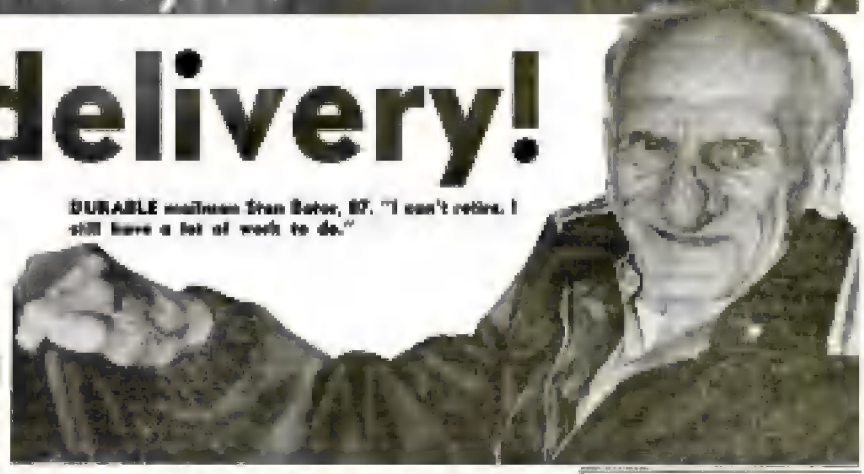
He's driven through blizzards and crossed flood-swollen rivers on bridges he made from planks.

"The worst I remember was one night when it was 40 below zero at the Pittsfield railroad station and I was the only truck to get out," the spry oldster recalled. "There were a lot of nights that I slept on a desk in the Pittsfield Post Office.

"I always got the mail to the post office.

"But sometimes I couldn't get myself home after a day's work."

That's dedication!"



DURABLE mailman Stan Bator, 87. "I can't retire. I still have a lot of work to do."

Kid, 11, gets 20 years in slammer

An 11-year-old boy was sentenced to 20 years behind bars — after he admitted setting a sleeping man on fire.

Abdul Hakim Salaam said he stuffed paper bags around Alvin Bable as he slept on the back steps of a shelter home in Newark, N.J.

After dousing the bags with gasoline, the youngster set the fire. Bable, 37, died the next morning.

Judge B. Thomas Leahy sentenced the kid to 20 years in confinement. Mental health officials were told to design a special therapy program for Abdul.

Moose hitches ride on speeding sleigh!

A couple near Ostersund, Sweden, were enjoying a brisk ride on their sleigh — when a moose hopped in with them, reports the newspaper Lanstidningen.

The newspaper said the moose was crossing a steep mountain path when it slipped and fell. Before the big beast could regain its footing the sleigh came zipping down the hill and scooped up the moose.

For a few seconds the couple and the bewildered moose shared the sleigh. Then the moose tired of the ride and jumped out.

Earliest Old Glory image is discovered

A Revolutionary War encampment site in New Jersey has yielded a long-lost memento of America's past — a brass plate bearing the earliest known picture of the Stars and Stripes!

The engraved plate, believed to be from an officer's sword belt, depicts the flag with 13 stars and 13 stripes that symbolizes the number of rebellious colonies that had united to form our nation.

The discovery was made at Pluckemin Cantonment by Dr. John Seidel, a professor at Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

The camp was manned for only six months, so the engraving can be precisely dated to the period after the stars and stripes design was approved by the Continental Congress.

Seidel said the plate was made sometime between 1777 and 1779.

Jailbird begs to jump from prison airplane

A murder suspect tried to bribe a pilot flying him to trial — and when the man didn't accept the bribe, begged to be let out of the plane in mid-air!

But the pilot, Sheriff's Deputy Wayne Kouga of Pinellas County, Fla., took suspect Steven Wayne White to court anyway, where a jury heard that he may have killed a man last February.

Kouga said White asked him and another deputy to land the plane.

"He said he could make it worth our while," he said. "He said he could make us a fortune."

But when the deputies refused to land and let White escape, the man begged to be allowed to jump into the Gulf of Mexico.

Bouncing baby boy is a lucky lad

MOM holds little Ian after his ordeal on a busy freeway.

By JOE BERGER

Impish, 8-month-old Ian Jennings was hurled from the back of a speeding van and bounced head over heels across three lanes of a busy freeway — but the super babe escaped with scarcely a scratch!

And just hours after his chilling ordeal, blue-eyed Ian was laughing and chattering like nothing had happened.

He somersaults across 3-lane freeway — and comes up smiling

"I just can't believe he's still in one piece," shell-shocked mom Sandra Jennings told reporters in Emsworth, England. "It's truly a miracle he wasn't killed.

"When I saw him and his little stroller tumbling over and over through all those cars, I thought we'd lost him for sure. It was worse than any nightmare."

Ian's hair-raising adventure began as his dad Colin, a computer systems manager, drove the family van along a bustling highway outside Chippenham.

When daughters Laura and Rowena started squabbling in the backseat, their dad slowed down to lecture them and the van suddenly careened out of control.

"The wheels just seemed to lock," Colin recalled. "Suddenly we spun around on the shoulder and we ended up in the fast lane."

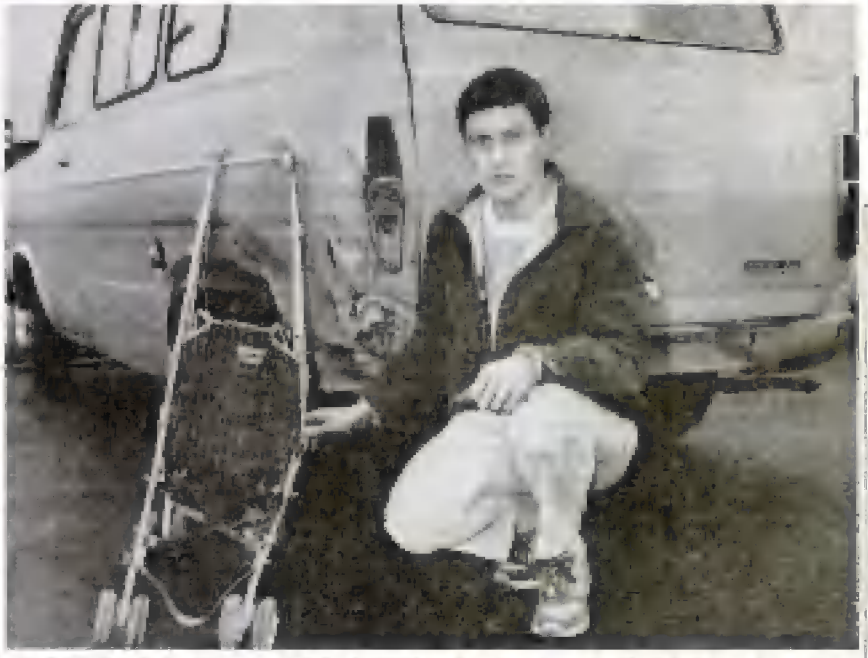
A car plowed into the back of the van, springing the rear doors open and launching little Ian — still strapped in his stroller — into the path of dozens of speeding autos.

As the frantic motorists swerved to avoid the bouncing baby, screaming Ian somersaulted across three lanes of traffic and ended up on the far shoulder.

"I just started praying and running after him," his proud pop recalled. "When Sandra and I got there, he was still in his stroller, looking very dazed.

"Sandra stayed there to take care of him and I ran to the nearest phone along the road to call for help.

"We were dead certain he was going to have serious injuries of some sort after the experience that he had been through."



BABY'S dad Colin Jennings with Ian's stroller which was tossed out of his van when a car rammed it and the rear door flew open. Little Ian tumbled across three lanes of traffic.

But at the hospital, docs determined the tough tot had suffered nothing but a few bumps and bruises.

"The hospital staff was amazed that he survived," Colin said. "He's a big strong boy for his age. Maybe that made the difference."

But Sandra, still stunned by the horrifying mishap, isn't taking any chances.

"I just can't seem to let him out of my sight now," she said. "I want to be with him every second of the day and night.

"When I saw him fly out that door, I was sure I'd never see him alive again. Now I'm just so grateful God gave him back to us I can't stand to be away from him."

So don't have a nice day!

Cops in Brunswick, Maine, will no longer be telling citizens to "Have a nice day."

Deputy Police Chief Richard Mears has directed members of the 40-officer force to avoid the expression, calling it "nothing short of an absurdly shallow insult."

Mears said patrolmen were in the habit of saying "Have a nice day" after issuing a traffic ticket.

And the remark, the chief said, has the same effect as "rubbing salt in a festering wound."

Kids stampede — and 28 die!

Elementary school students in a hurry to get to the playground started a stampede that left 28 children dead and 100 injured.

The tragedy took place in a four-story school building in the Shaanxi Province of China as children squeezed onto a narrow stairway leading to the only exit.

By the time teachers managed to restore order four students were dead.

Twenty-four more children died later at a nearby hospital, officials said.

Phony deposit box nets crook $11G

A crafty crook put an "out of order" sign on a bank's night deposit box, placed a phony box beside it — and escaped with a weekend haul of $11,000.

Depositors at a Comerica Bank branch in Southfield, Mich., were fooled by the scam when they arrived to make deposits Saturday and Sunday.

The wily criminal made the hoax look more like the real thing by affixing a sign that read "out of order" to a bogus green metal box with "Comerica" written on the side and several depositors fell for the clever criminal scheme.

The wily criminal made the hoax look more like the real thing by affixing a sign that read "out of order" to a bogus green metal box with "Comerica" written on the side and several depositors fell for the clever criminal scheme.

The bank's deposit box was under 24-hour surveillance.

During the weekend, depositors for stores at Northland Center mall followed directions and filled up the phony box with $11,000 in cash and checks.

But when bank officials arrived to work Monday morning, the "out of order" sign was still on the bank's deposit box. But the phony green box was gone.

Cops later found the thief had broken off a key in the bank's deposit box.

Bar slammed with fizzy-drink lawsuit

Robert L. Bowen is suing an Alexandria, La., lounge because he cut his hand when he slammed his drink against the bar — trying to make it fizz.

Bowen said he was drinking a "slammer," a mixture of liquor and carbonated water. Partygoers traditionally slam the drink against the bar to watch it bubble up.

But Bowen says he hurt his hand because the bartender served his slammer in a defective glass.

Health experts confirm . . .

Weight lifter gets AIDS sharing steroids needle

For the first time doctors have documented the transmission of AIDS through a needle shared by weight lifters taking anabolic steroids!

An unidentified 22-year-old man from West Palm Beach, Fla., was diagnosed as being a carrier of the AIDS virus even though he was not sexually promiscuous.

After a massive investigation, health officials determined that he got the disease while sharing a hypodermic with four other weight lifters at a health club.

"He wasn't homosexual and he wasn't using other intravenous drugs," Vickie Pryor, an AIDS surveillance coordinator, said.

Anabolic steroids are synthetic hormones used by bodybuilders and other athletes to build and develop muscles. They can be deadly and are illegal without a prescription.

Miss Pryor said the tragic young weight lifter was devastated to learn that he had AIDS.

"He kept saying over and over, 'This can't be true. It must be wrong,'" she said.

Mailman called on carpet for being a hero

Mailman Gary Craycroft got in trouble with his boss when he took a little time out from his job — to save an old lady from injury.

The Satellite Beach, Fla., mail carrier got a letter of reprimand accusing him of "an unsafe act resulting in personal injury," after he jumped into a rolling car and stopped it, hurting his left leg, right elbow and ribs.

The car was rolling backward toward gas pumps when Craycroft, 37, spotted it. It was heading directly for an elderly lady when heroic Craycroft dove into it and put on the brakes.

Beauty's merely skin-deep in hot new fashion craze!

Gals fall for 'tattoo' look

By SUSAN JIMISON

A crazy new craze sweeping Europe has beautiful young women looking like tattooed sailors — with wild patterns, colorful designs, and even pearls and rhinestones decorating their skin.

The fantastic fad, which began in London, has already spread to other major capitals like Stockholm and Paris, where women from 15 to 50 spiff up their skin with "face dressing."

Using face paint, lace and cut-up paper doilies, the lovely ladies bedeck themselves with designs. With special glues from theatrical suppliers they fasten the fancy decorations to the skin of their faces, their necks, shoulders and plunging necklines.

On special evenings, women dress in their party best with cascades of pearls falling from cheek to shoulder, designs of sparkling diamonds entwined around their neck.

Some make entire masks of rhinestones or sequins to add mystery and magic to their looks.

"Just a few weeks ago, a woman who decorated her skin was a rarity," said a fashion consultant in Copenhagen. "Now everyone is doing it.

"They're using ribbons, jewelry — even colorful plastic cutouts — and the effect is stunning. We think it's an outgrowth of the punk fashion movement. Wherever it came from, it's taken Europe by storm."

Fashion forecasters predict that colorful patterned hosiery — now all the rage — will soon be replaced by patterns painted and glued directly to the skin of the legs. And after that decorations for the arms won't be long in coming. "We can even foresee a time when women will decorate their tummies at the beach," another fashion expert said. "Who knows how far this trend will go?"

CHARGED in the tragic beating death of his hitherto stepfather, retired Marine Col. Jonathan Mendes, 65, is shown in this photo.

Millionaire dies in slugfest over a stack of books, say cops

By PETE COOKE

A retired Marine colonel was booked on manslaughter charges for beating a rich relative to death in an argument over 100 rare books, police said.

New York City cops accused Col. Jonathan Mendes of killing John Goodwillie, his wife's wealthy stepfather, in the posh Park Avenue apartment building where both men lived.

Goodwillie, a retired multimillionaire advertising executive, was in the process of moving to Washington, D.C., when he met with Mendes and other relatives of his late wife, Muriel.

Investigators said a simmering dispute between Mendes, 65, and Goodwillie, 77, boiled over when the two met in Goodwillie's apartment and fought over 100 rare books that had been part of Muriel's estate.

Manhattan Chief of Detectives Aaron Rosenthal said Goodwillie was "punched in the face several times" by Mendes.

"The irony here is that both men have all this wealth and all this opulence and they ended up fighting over the principle of who owned these books," Rosenthal said.

Investigators said that after the fight, Mendes called a police precinct in his own apartment and told his son to check on Goodwillie. Mendes' son discovered Goodwillie's body lying face-down on the bedroom floor. Mendes, who faces up to 25 years in prison if convicted, was released on $2,000 bail.

NARCS FAKE CAR WRECK TO CATCH DRUG SUSPECT

Cops staged a fake traffic accident to lure a suspected drug dealer out of a home guarded by a trained attack dog.

"We didn't want to kick her front door in and have the dog attack us and have to kill it," said Sgt. John Grasser of the Clark County, Wash., sheriff's office.

Instead, the cops drove two cars close to each other and faked the accident in front of her home.

"Most of it was just the two undercover officers yelling at each other," said Sgt. Grasser.

He said the racket lured Katheryn Britton, 38, out of her house and into the front yard. That's when cops arrested her on charges of possessing methamphetamine.

Baby dumped with beer cans

A karate expert was sentence to life behind bars for beating his helpless 4-month-old son to death and dumping the infant's body in a garbage bag with his empty beer cans!

"You've given us all nightmares for years to come," said Judge Michael McSpadden as he passed sentence on Joel Cox of Houston, Tex.

By PETE COOKE

Authorities said the baby, Stephen Cox, suffered head injuries, five broken ribs and a lacerated liver.

The boy's tiny body was found in a plastic garbage bag that had been discarded in a trash dumpster in the apartment complex where Cox and his family lived.

The shocking case began when Cox called the police and reported that his son had been kidnapped by a baby-sitter.

A search was immediately launched for the boy, but Cox soon admitted that Stephen was dead and led detectives to the dumpster where he had tossed the child's body.

Throughout the trial Cox was supported by his wife, Annette, who was in the hospital at the time the couple's son was beaten to death.

Cops said Cox contended that the infant had died accidentally.

Cox's mother-in-law testified that he had injured his daughter, Kara, in 1986. She said Cox broke the child's ribs and he was convicted of a misdemeanor charge and sentenced to a year in the county jail.

Defense lawyer James Seabolt described Cox to jurors as "an angry young man" who simply could not control his temper. But the jury found Cox guilty of the brutal killing of the tiny tot.

"As long as I have been on the bench and as long as I'll probably be on the bench, I'll never understand these cases," Judge McSpadden told the convicted killer.

CONVICTED killer Joel Cox is met in a courthouse hallway by his wife, Annette, after he was sent to prison for life for murdering their baby boy.

Dogsled driver attacks mutts

An Alaskan dogsled driver was accused of cruelty to animals after he tried to kill his entire team of dogs — by bashing them over the head with a five-pound hammer, police said.

Lawmen said 28-year-old Sheldon Shaw of Moose Creek bludgeoned the six dogs and left them to die.

Three of the pooches were found dead. The other three were put to sleep at a veterinary clinic after doctors determined they wouldn't possibly survive.

They All Laughed When I Said I Was Going To Start My Own Business

My wife said I didn't know what I was doing . . . my friends were skeptical . . . and my neighbors thought I was wasting my time.

Yet I was determined to make it in a business of my own. Sure I wanted the extra cash coming in. But money wasn't the only reason. I simply dreaded the idea of spending the rest of my life working for someone else . . . in a job I really didn't like.

So I said the heck with everyone else and started in my spare time - right from a corner in the basement. I chose Mail Order because I heard you could begin without experience or too much capital.

As you'll see below, it wasn't long before I realized I'd made the right choice.

Cash by Mail

My initial investment was under $50. In less than three years, I'd quit my job and was taking in up to $5,000 A DAY . . . MORE THAN $200,000 A YEAR!

On some days, the mail and checks poured in so fast, my wife and I had to use a CARD-BOARD BOX to carry everything to the bank.

By this time, my wife had already forgotten her original doubts about Mail Order and was telling everyone she knew I was right all along. But best of all, I threw a party for those skeptical friends and neighbors in my new home - the one with the big pool in the backyard.

But this was only the beginning. I branched out and started five more mail order firms. I sold everything - from gifts to plant food. Before I knew it, I'd become a millionaire and a respected mail order authority.

Then I began publishing articles about Mail Order . . . now I write a monthly magazine column and finish . . . I created Mail Order Associates, Inc.

$100,000

Yes, Mail Order is certainly a fabulous business! Come up with a "hot" new item or idea . . . and Wham!

It strikes like a bolt of lightning!

Suddenly you are flooded with cash orders from all over the country . . . MORE MONEY than you could ever make in a lifetime!

Like the Vermont dealer who ran one ad in Sports Afield Magazine. His ad pulled 35,000 orders - over A HALF MILLION DOLLARS IN CASH!

There is no other business where you can make a fortune so quickly!

A beginner from Newark, N.J. ran his first small ad in House Beautiful - offering an auto clothes rack. Business Week reported that his ad brought in $5,000 in orders. By the end of his first year in Mail Order, he had grossed over $400,000!

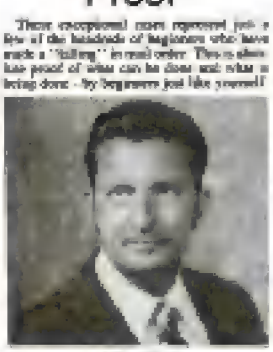
Another beginner - a lawyer from the midwest, sold an idea by mail to fishermen. Specialty Salesman Magazine reveals, "He made $100,000 in his first year."

It's a fascinating business! Running ads in newspapers and magazines . . . mailing gift catalogs . . . getting cash orders in your daily mail - steady as clockwork.

There is no other business where you can start out on a shoestring and pyramid your profits - without investing in merchandise! One husband and wife mail order team took in $40,000 selling a single item. They obtained FREE ads in national magazines - didn't invest a cent in merchandise, and even got the supplier to ship all orders for them!

Proof

These exceptional cases represent just a few of the hundreds of beginners who have made a "killing" in mail order. This is absolute proof of what can be done and what is being done - by beginners just like yourself!



G.M. Tuft

When furnish proof? Pick up any magazine. Notice how the same mail order ads appear month after month? That's concrete proof. You know those ads wouldn't be repeated over and over again - unless they were bringing in big cash profits to their owners.

The Secret

The secret of getting rich in Mail Order lies in financial leverage. It's a little-known, almost secret method - using other people's capital to make money for you!

You can get thousands of dollars worth of advertising in big national magazines - without investing your own money! And you don't have to write a single ad. Tested and proven ads are prepared for you by experts. Reinvest the profits from your first successful ad - to get more, larger ads, and the profits begin to snowball!

You mail out beautiful catalogs which offer hundreds of dollars worth of quality gifts - yet you don't invest one cent of your own money in merchandise! Your catalogs are printed with your name and address, so all orders come to you. Everything is "drop-shipped" for you, and there's up to 100% mark-up! You pocket the cash profits immediately - even before the orders are filled!

Yes, Mail Order is the fastest growing, most profitable business in America! And with more people moving to the suburbs . . . the increase in working women . . . and the ever-growing high cost of energy . . . we are on the verge of the BIGGEST BOOM in Mail Order history.

Frolicking newlyweds turn Russkie army maneuvers into . . .

War fun & games

A pair of starry-eyed honeymooners were arrested and charged with hooliganism after they disrupted a Warsaw Pact war game near the Ukrainian village of Sumy, top Soviet newspapers report.

Authorities told the press that East German newlyweds Emil and Gerda Tanzer, both 20, were lying together "in a state of some undress" in a poppy field when the elite 317th Infantry Division rumbled into view.

The simulated attack reportedly ground to a halt as troops stopped to watch the lovers. The delay lasted an incredible 10 minutes before the embarrassed young couple realized they were being watched.

"Forward elements of the division stopped in the field to see what was happening," said Soviet Gen. Alexei Golubev. "The couple was so intent in their lovemaking that the infantry halted for 10 minutes before the lovers saw them.

"The holdup of the forward elements caused the remainder of the division to pile up in the rear, totally disrupting the war game. We can't begin to estimate the cost of the delay. But it was substantial and the setback has endangered the Motherland."

The Tanzers were jailed for six days before the Soviets — fearing an international incident — freed them to complete their honeymoon.

Under the terms of their release the couple refused to discuss their incarceration. They did say that they were embarrassed by the incident and wished to avoid further confrontation with the authorities.

"We thought we were miles away from everybody. And the countryside was so beautiful we just decided to celebrate our new marriage," said Mrs. Tanzer.

"I've never been so embarrassed," she added. "It was like having thousands of strangers march right into your bedroom."

Members of the Western Alliance, particularly the West Germans, were said to be most interested in the incident. According to one high-ranking official, no one had known the location of the Soviet 317th division.

Was free-spending cop a cold-blooded killer?

By PETE COOKE

A cop who allegedly wore a $14,000 watch, gave his girlfriend a new Corvette and cruised the city in his own $55,000 sportscar, is now facing life behind bars after three men died during a drug rip-off.

Osvaldo Coello is now on trial in federal court in Miami, Fla., for violating the rights of three men who drowned in the Miami River while guarding a load of cocaine.

Rodolfo Arias, another former Miami police officer, pleaded guilty for his part in the crime and agreed to testify against Coello and other accused cops.

According to Arias, Coello collected about $2 million from drug deals and quickly became a big spender.

Coello bought a $14,000 Rolex watch and a gold chain "as thick as my K-9 dog's choke chain," Arias testified.

Arias said Coello threw swank parties at Miami discos and spent $5,000 for Dom Perignon champagne one night.

Coello paid $55,000 for a red Lotus sportscar and bought his girlfriend a red Corvette, Arias testified.

Pedro Baez, a survivor of the Miami River incident, testified that he and five other men were hired to guard and load 880 pounds of cocaine into a van at a boatyard.

Baez told jurors that when they saw police rushing toward them, they dove into the Computer puts Arab's love life on schedule

Most folks use personal computers to keep track of expenses or business data, but a fat rat Arab named Saleh uses his to schedule time with his wives.

Saleh, who lives in the Saudi Arabian capital of Riyadh, has four wives living in four different homes. The only way he can remember which wife he's supposed to be with and for how long is to consult the program he's set up on his computer, reports the Saudi newspaper Al Yamamah.

Saleh ended up with four wives because he wants to have lots of kids. While Saudi Arabia allows multiple wives, his own family threw a fit and refused to talk to him after he wed wife No. 2. However, the cold war ended when Saleh's brother wed wife No. 2's sister.

Saleh took wife No. 3 after a doctor told him his first two wives could only have four children each.

Less than two months after wedding No. 3, he married No. 4, a woman he'd known for only a week.

The newspaper reports that Saleh's computer program apparently keeps things "running smoothly" in each of his four marriages.

Judge slams 'sad' spinster who harassed ex-boyfriend

They dated 36 years ago!

By RUTH HEFLER

A woman was found guilty of harassing an old college beau she hadn't seen in 36 years — sending him a barrage of love letters that arrived daily for three straight years!

"I got her damn letters every single day," complained William Burton of Brielle, N.J. "My wife got a little upset."

Burton, a 59-year-old federal bankruptcy trustee, said he met Ann Hammond when he was a student at the University of Maryland, where she was a coed.

"She was a pretty cute little girl, but it wasn't an intimate affair," he said.

Burton recalled that he and Miss Hammond dated a couple of times and said that was the end of it as far as he was concerned.

But 36 years later Miss Hammond got Burton's address and began sending him letters suggesting they get married.

"I wrote back to her after the first letter and said, 'I'm not interested, thank you very much,'" Burton told The NEWS.

Burton's rejection didn't have any effect and the love letters kept pouring in.

"They were voluminous letters, three to four pages long, typewritten single-spaced on both sides," Burton said. "She wrote about her lawn mower, her dog, her menstrual cycle and about how she wanted to have children with me."

In addition to the mountain of mail, Burton received gifts and airline tickets from his old flame.

Burton said he sent many of Miss Hammond's letters back unopened, then started throwing them away when they kept coming.

Finally, in desperation, he called the cops.

"It's pretty sad," Burton said.

"Back in college she was an intelligent, pretty girl with a lot going for her. But now Ann Hammond weighs 180 pounds and wears a wig."

After she was convicted in Brielle of harassment, Miss Hammond was sentenced to a year's probation, fined $500 and ordered to undergo psychological counseling.

Docs make more money

Docs made more money last year, but they had to work harder for it, a new study shows. Physicians' incomes rose 8.5 percent in 1988, but they spent at least an hour a week more in taking care of their patients, according to the American Medical News poll.

The average income of physicians in 1988 was $119,300. The doctors spent about 50.2 hours a week taking care of their clients.

Convict sues cops because they didn't stop his crime

A convicted murderer is taking legal action against police, accusing them of negligence — for not catching him before he killed!

By PETE COOKE

David Dampier was convicted of second-degree murder in the shotgun slaying of a hospital security guard in Pensacola, Fla. He is serving a 15-year prison stretch for the crime.

But the 27-year-old killer now claims that he wouldn't have committed the murder and wouldn't be in prison today if cops had nabbed him before he pulled the trigger.

"This whole thing is a mockery of the judicial system," said Sheriff Larry Gilbert of Crestview, Fla.

"Apparently, the attorneys don't have anything better to do. Of course, the inmate obviously doesn't have anything better to do."

Dampier's complaint says he stole a shotgun from a home in Fort Walton Beach on the day of the shooting.

Dampier claims that officials at a Pensacola mental health clinic, where he was once treated, reported the theft of the shotgun to authorities and suggested Dampier be picked up.

But before cops took Dampier into custody he gunned down security guard Jerry Hudson as he patrolled the parking lot of Baptist Hospital in Pensacola. Dampier was sentenced to 15 years behind bars after pleading no contest to a second-degree murder charge.

"It's just ludicrous, in my opinion, for someone to perform a criminal act and then attempt to sue the law enforcement agency for failure to prevent the crime he committed," said John Dowd, the Okaloosa County attorney.

"PRESCRIPTION DRUG KILLS DOCTOR"

"Do you know the intended good effects and bad side effects of 400 prescription drugs? Read this and we will send you a free gift."

(By Frank K. Wood)

A local Atlanta area doctor has died from a freak drug reaction on a trip overseas. An infection he had didn't clear up after taking a drug so he took a different drug, too. The two drugs reacted with each other and caused crystallization in his kidneys. He had kidney failure and died a few days later.

WHAT YOUR DOCTOR DOESN'T TELL YOU ABOUT THE SIDE EFFECTS OF PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

This tragedy points to the fact that most doctors don't tell their patients about the side effects of the drugs they prescribe. This was revealed recently in a U.S. Government survey.

The reaction that killed the doctor and many other prescription drug side effects are clearly described in a new book, "Prescription Drug Encyclopedia".

THE GOOD EFFECTS OF PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

You take drugs prescribed by your doctor for their good effects, like relieving pain, fighting infection, birth control, aiding sleep, calming down, fighting coughs, colds or allergies, or lowering heartbeat and blood pressure.

DO YOU HAVE ANY OF THESE BAD SIDE EFFECTS?

Prescription drugs can cause diarrhea, dizziness, dry mouth, depression, headache, upset stomach, constipation, stuffy nose, short breath, high blood pressure, fear and ringing sounds.

DO YOU KNOW THE ANSWERS TO THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT PRESCRIPTION DRUGS?

When your busy doctor gives you a prescription, what do you, or even your doctor know about it? What's it for? Will you be allergic to it? What are its side effects and dangers? Will it affect other medicine you're taking?

One drug described on page 165 of the book can cause dangerous heart problems if you suddenly stop taking it. Page 31 warns that a drug you take routinely for shortness of breath can actually cause breathing difficulties! Yes, the very thing it's supposed to prevent.

LATEST FACTS ON EACH DRUG

The book describes more than 400 of the most often-used drugs. Facts are given in easy-to-understand words instead of hard-to-understand medical terms.

EASY TO READ

Drugs are listed in alphabetical order for quick, dictionary-style finding. The book lists brand names, money-saving generic names, good effects, side effects, warnings and interactions with other drugs.

It explains drug categories. (For example: a drug may be called an "analgesic" — analgesic means "pain reliever".)

Order this 30,000 word, easy-to-understand book explaining more than 400 drugs, edited by two pharmacists, right away.

Miracle mineral

Substance could end bone disease in gals

A miracle mineral has been enlisted in the battle to wipe out a common bone ailment — and promises to be the biggest breakthrough in the treatment of osteoporosis ever!

By SUSAN JIMISON

The mineral — called Boron — used to be considered unimportant to human health, but scientists recently discovered that it can stop postmenopausal bone loss in women. Osteoporosis affects millions of American women and leads to bone breaks and fractures in old age.

Taken in doses of 3 mg. a day, the mineral apparently affects levels of hormones in the blood, reducing the loss of calcium, magnesium and phosphorus that keep the bones hard, researchers found.

"Boron had a remarkable effect on indicators that the body is conserving calcium or preventing bone demineralization," said Forrest H. Nielsen, director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Human Nutrition Research Center in Grand Forks, N. Dakota. "We really became excited when we saw its effect on steroid hormones. Levels of the hormones doubled to levels found in women on estrogen replacement therapy. Estrogen replacement is currently the only proven therapy for osteoporosis."

Boron, now marketed by Twin Laboratories, Inc., of Ronkonkoma, N.Y., was tested in 12 volunteers in a recent study at the medical research center.

All of the volunteers showed a 40 percent reduction in loss of calcium from their bodies.

Boron is found naturally in foods like pears, apples and grapes, leafy vegetables, nuts and legumes.

Osteoporosis effects approximately 25 percent of women over 60 years of age — about 20 million women altogether. Doctors prescribe estrogen replacement therapy to halt the steady loss of bone in older women, but the therapy often must be stopped because of unwanted side effects.

Crazy bird to the rescue!

Cuckoo cockatiel dies hero's death

Canadian Robert Wilson would have died in his bed as his house burned down around him if he hadn't been awakened by his best friend — a cuckoo cockatiel named Norman Bates!

Alas! Though 87-year-old Robert escaped the inferno unharmed, heroic Norman Bates — named after the wacko killer in the classic Hitchcock horror flick Psycho — perished in the flames.

"He saved my life," Robert said as he surveyed the charred ruins of his home in Vancouver.

"I buried him with full military honors in Smithrite Cemetery."

He said Norman Bates — "I named him that because he was kinda psycho" — flapped into his bedroom at 4 a.m. and noisily roused him from his slumber.

"The damn fool thing was squawking his head off."

When Robert hobbled to the door and opened it, the blaze, caused by an electrical outlet, flared and destroyed the bedroom — and poor Norman Bates along with it.

"I'll have fond memories of that crazy bird for the rest of my life," said Robert, who now sleeps on a cot.

LUCKY Robert Wilson points to the electrical outlet believed responsible for the fire that almost killed him.

GIANT HOBOSCOPE

By Countess Sophia Sabak

ARIES

Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Star patterns favor new ventures. This is a good time for a bold Aries to act on an enterprise to improve financial situation. Don't forget to plan out your moves.

Romance has been humdrum lately, but not for long. That spark of passion will soon ignite flames between you and a special someone. Remember, wine and candlelight and a table at a cozy eatery enhance a lovely time.

The color green is especially lucky Wednesday.

TAURUS

Apr. 20-May 20

It's not easy to stay middle-of-the-road when pals are feuding. Fortunately, Taurus is blessed with patience and common sense. These traits will help you settle this dispute and save friendships.

Old baggy clothes inhabit your dresser and closet. Get rid of the rags and start wearing your good stuff. Clothes may not make the man, but they sure make him look better. Travel, even short jaunts to the store, is especially hazardous on Saturday.

GEMINI

May 21-June 20

Some new problems may need solving this week. Don't be negative in dealing with whatever happens. A positive attitude may result in the right solution.

The week ahead may hold a few happy surprises for you, your friends or family. Check your finances. Maybe you can afford that special trip after all.

Members of the opposite sex find you pleasant to be around. Be careful that you don't mistake mere friendship for something more.

CANCER

June 21-July 22

Your Cancer versatility may be tested this week in a dispute between friends or family members. Be careful you don't get too involved.

Take advantage of new opportunities this week that could have a profound effect on the rest of your life. Be sure you get sound advice.

When is the last time you had a day to yourself to do exactly as you please?

Maybe it's high time you gave yourself a little space.

LEO

July 23-Aug. 22

Loosen up, Leo. Let your hair down this week and get rid of the stress that's been bringing knots to your stomach. Have a ball with family and friends and forget all about the ogre who's been giving you so much grief. This is no time for sweat and toil!

A pleasant journey could be just around the corner so don't schedule too far in advance. Think adventure.

A special friend is longing to hear from you but is waiting for you to make the first move. Don't delay.

VIRGO

Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Keep your eyes glued to road, Virgo. Things are moving at a hectic pace this week and you may have to make some important decisions on the spur of the moment. Don't panic — you're up to the task. But don't be afraid to touch the brakes if you feel your life speeding out of control.

A casual acquaintance will become a dear and trusted friend before the week is out. The turn of events will be rewarding for both of you. Something gray or blue could cause problems.

LIBRA

Sept. 23-Oct. 22

An unusual opportunity may come your way in the week ahead and pave the way to an exciting new future. Don't be afraid to take a chance in order to get ahead.

A Libra leaning toward laziness could cause family friction at this time. Make an extra effort to do your share of the chores or there may be trouble.

All signs indicate that you should be on your best behavior for the time being. A prank could backfire, causing problems.

SCORPIO

Oct. 23-Nov. 21

A creative urge could lead to some exciting changes in your life if you have the courage to follow your instincts. Don't worry about what others might think and you will be rewarded.

A Scorpio knack for being constructive may be an important factor in helping a friend who is in trouble. Show them the way through your example.

All signs indicate that simmering disputes could boil over into serious problems in the week ahead.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Though all has not been going according to plan in recent weeks, the outlook for the future is rosy and bright. Be prepared to take advantage of sudden opportunities.

Make a concerted effort to strengthen ties with those you've been drifting away from. There are those who desperately need your love and understanding.

Financial woes will vanish now that you've made up your mind to take a firm hold on the reins of your life.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22-Jan. 19

You can accomplish a great deal this week if you guard against the tendency to spread resources too thin. Avoid laggards and no-accounts. You've got more important things to do with your time!

A neighbor or co-worker shows his true colors and you might not like what you see. Your Capricorn instincts and intuition are right on the money. Trust them.

New faces figure prominently. Go out of your way to strike up friendships.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Small irritations may try your patience in this year of life, but no major problems are in store. Cultivate your social relationships and take up hobbies to reduce stress and take your mind off your troubles.

Police artist makes horrifying discovery when he rebuilds face of murder victim

Police Lt. Salvatore Garcia jumps back in horror when he realizes murder victim's face is that of his missing daughter.

Oh, God, it's my little girl!

By HARRY COHN

A police artist recoiled in horror and utter disbelief when the face he was reconstructing from the skull of a murder victim turned out to be that of his own daughter — who'd vanished three years earlier!

"It was the most horrifying moment of my life," Lt. Salvatore Garcia told newspaper reporters in Anapolis, Brazil.

"Up until that moment I still had hope that my precious daughter was alive.

"I was totally devastated," he continued.

"It was like seeing the ghost of someone you didn't even know was dead."

The horrifying drama began to unfold when a fisherman found the algae-caked skull of 17-year-old Alicia Garcia on the edge of a pond near Anapolis and alerted police.

It was delivered to Lt. Garcia, whose ability to reconstruct faces based on the shape of skulls has led to the identities of more than a dozen murder victims.

"I knew from the beginning that the skull was that of a young woman in her late teens or perhaps early 20s," he said.

"Maybe in my heart of hearts I suspected it could be that of Alicia. But I couldn't bring myself to admit it. I was too scared."

Tragically, Lt. Garcia wasn't able to fool himself for long as he looked at the face he was rebuilding. The skull's high cheekbones, narrow forehead and sharp chin were just like those of his daughter.

Whether subconsciously or not, he gave the face large oval eyes and a long slender nose — completing the visage of his child.

At that point dental records were checked, confirming the awful truth.

Inspector Antonio Bianco said the young woman obviously had been decapitated but the cause of death and motive for murder were not known.

The investigation will continue.

Meanwhile, Lt. Garcia has taken an indefinite leave of absence to recover from the shock of his gruesome discovery.

"They say time heals all wounds," he said.

"I just hope and pray that's so for me."

Granny foils robber by pretending to faint

A shell-shocked robber ran off in a panic when he tried to stick up a hotel — and the elderly night clerk pretended to faint dead away.

"I just lay flat down on the floor and died," said grandmother Mildred Breakell, 70, a night clerk at Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in Boca Raton, Fla.

"The robber got really scared when I hit the floor. He said, 'Oh, my God!' and then ran away as fast as he could. He didn't want to be held for murder. He was really sorry he started the whole thing."

The quick-thinking granny said she was held up once before while working at another hotel and decided she'd fake a faint if it ever happened again.

She got her chance when the bandit walked in pretending to have a gun under his sweater and ordered her to open the till.

"I was really quite frightened," she said later.

Handicap doesn't slow down determined mom — she's . . .

BELLE ON WHEELS

GREASE MONKEY Dee finishes repacking an auto's brakes.

LOVING MOTHER Dee Fries hoists her little bundle of joy Cierra. The wonder woman enjoys caring for her family. "I don't consider myself handicapped," says Dee.

By SUSAN JIMISON

Incredible Dee Fries is an auto mechanic, bowler, mother of three, wife, housekeeper — and the victim of a crippling disease that keeps her confined to a wheelchair.

The Port Charlotte, Fla., woman amazes everyone who knows her with her ability to overcome her handicap. She hasn't let the spina bifida she was born with hold her back one bit.

'She can do anything she puts her mind to,' says her mother-in-law

"She has an incredible attitude," Dee's admiring mother-in-law, Jane Fries, told The NEWS. "It's never that she can't do something — it's just a problem of finding a way to do it.

"Most people look at a person in a wheelchair and say, 'Oh, that poor thing.' But their pity is totally misplaced in Dee's case. She can do anything she puts her mind to."

Dee, 44, suffers from a condition in which her spine and nervous system were not properly formed. She has limited mobility — but that doesn't stop her from getting around.

The spunky blonde has three kids — twins Robbie and Robin, 12, and baby daughter Cierra, 2 — and she tends them just as any mother does. When she's not cooking meals and cleaning house, she's looking for work as an auto mechanic, a trade she learned at the county vocational school.

"It's amazing when you meet somebody who doesn't know you, how little they think you can do," said Dee. "Some people seem to think that handicapped people should just sit quietly at home and crochet or do something with their hands. But I'm stubborn. Maybe I have too much confidence in myself, but if I don't nobody else will."

Dee can scramble under a car just as well as any grease monkey and she can tinker with what's under the hood by pulling herself up onto the car and sitting on the fenders.

She's done so well as a mechanic that she wowed her instructors at vocational school.

"I thought she wouldn't be able to do a tune-up or pull a steering wheel and I was wrong," said one of them, Fred Stuenkel. "She can get under the dash and in the engine

Now that she has graduated, Dee hopes to get a job and help her husband Phil support the family. Until then, she keeps her chin up.

"Some people have had attitudes and to me that's a handicap," the courageous mom said. "I don't consider myself handicapped. I'm inconvenienced. And I won't let an

Good Samaritans bag purse-snatching pair

By DICK DONOVAN

Two Florida women had their faith in their fellow man restored after both were helped by anonymous strangers who nabbed their attackers!

Katherine Mandody and Darlene Kohuth had their purses grabbed in the sprawling parking lot of a West Palm Beach shopping center in thefts staged less than 90 minutes apart.

A man followed Mrs. Mandody's attacker in his car, then used his car phone to call police. He gave them the address of a house where the purse snatcher was hiding.

Minutes later, 33-year-old Larry Chapman, who cops say had threatened Mrs. Mandody with a knife, was in custody, charged with armed robbery.

Mrs. Kohuth's assailant ran past another man who gave chase, tackled the fleeing thief and, armed only with a pop bottle, held him until cops arrived.

The suspect, 34-year-old Tony McDonald, was charged with strong-arm robbery and hauled off to the county slammer.

The two Good Samaritans pooh-poohed their heroics and left before police or local newspapers could get their names.

"I had begun to think people didn't care what happened to anyone anymore," Mrs. Kohuth said. "But now I've changed my point of view."

"It was incredible how everyone got involved," added Mrs. Mandody.

"It did a lot to restore my

This message is only for those who have never won anything at the races, lotto or other lotteries...or who have only won insignificant amounts (less than $100).
This message is also for those of you who believe it is impossible to win several thousand dollars and think that their life will never be anything but a succession of dull, sad days.

Your golden number

Scientists admit that planetary positions on our birthdate influences our lives, our behavior and the right - and wrong - decisions we make. Now, more and more people recognize that a particular number will also influence our lives. Some assert that this number is the visible sign - much like a mystical presence - through which the infinite intelligence helps us...proving that we are not totally on our own.

If you have read, as I have, statements made by big time winners (over $1,000,000), then you know they very often admit to having been helped by being dictated all or some of the numbers. They will acknowledge this fact openly though some may not believe them.

The more specialized media will also prove to you that an incredible amount of people have won hundreds and thousands they never could have hoped to win - thanks to their personal lucky number. They often talk and write about it.

Help yourself and heaven will help you

Despair no more

It is a fact that luck strikes most often when it is least expected. Reading this message is the first step. Luck is about to come your way. Perhaps you were to read this message.

Looking back on all the important moments of your life, you might have noticed that a certain number - different from other people's numbers - reoccurs over and over again. Those who understand the message and who recognize their Golden Number have been known to win thousands at the races, lotto or lotteries.

I wish to reach those of you who - for various reasons - have not grasped this message.
